Our Community

Farmington Public Schools is located in Farmington and Farmington Hills, a thriving suburban area 13 miles northwest of Detroit in Oakland County, one of Michigan's most dynamic and diverse regions. With more than 90,000 residents, the community offers vibrant neighborhoods, strong schools, global businesses, and rich cultural amenities.

Farmington Public Schools serves Farmington, Farmington Hills, and part of West Bloomfield through one early childhood center, eight elementary schools, three middle schools, one K–8 school, two comprehensive high schools, and one alternative high school. Reflecting the area's diversity and global outlook, our schools prepare students to succeed in college, career, and an interconnected world.
