Community Education Newsletter

Greetings from the Superintendent's Desk

As we turn the calendar to December, it's hard to believe how quickly this fall has flown by. It seems this time of year always moves at a faster pace for some reason.

I want to extend a huge congratulations and best wishes to our MPB Thunder Volleyball team as they prepare to compete at the State Tournament in Bismarck November 20–22. This newsletter will be going to print before the tournament begins, so we won't know the results. No matter the results, we are incredibly proud of their hard work and the way they have represented our co-op and our community. We'll be cheering them on every step of the way!

I also want to take a moment to share something that has been on my mind lately. Over the past several weeks, life has been especially busy, both at school and at home. I've been reminded how important it is to intentionally set aside time to rest. When our schedules stack up and the pace gets hectic, it's easy to push through and tell ourselves we'll slow down "later." But I've noticed in my own life that without real down-time, I end up feeling drained and less at my best.

I imagine many of you may feel the same way. December brings excitement and joy, but it can also bring stress, long to-do lists, and the pressure to keep up with holiday activities. So, I want to encourage all of you to build in moments of rest wherever you can. Sometimes it's as simple as spending a quiet evening at home, putting the phone away, or stepping outside for a breath of fresh air. These small pauses help recharge us and make the busy seasons more meaningful rather than overwhelming.

Christmas is a good time to pause and remember that Jesus came to earth to bring hope, peace, and light in the midst of a dark and chaotic world! Take some time to be reminded of what truly matters during this time of year. I wish each of you a Merry Christmas and Happy New Year!

Archery Season

Archery season will begin in mid-January. Myron Gunderson will be the coach for the upcoming season. A schedule and more information will be provided as we get closer to the start of the season.

Fan Behavior at Sporting Events

As we approach the beginning of our winter sports season, I want to remind our fans of the behavior expectations at sporting events. We want sporting events to be a positive experience for our athletes and fans, therefore it's important for everyone to follow the expectations of positive behavior set forth by the NDHSAA. If you plan to attend games this winter, have fun and cheer positively. I encourage everyone to view the expectations on the NDHSAA website. These expectations will also be posted at the entrance of our gymnasium.

Early Dismissal on December 19

School will be dismissed at 1:15 on December 19 to begin the Christmas break. School will resume on Monday, January 5.

PRINCIPAL'S MESSAGE

The Pressure to Be Perfect

As the holidays approach, it's easy to fall into the "everything must be perfect" mindset — the perfect decorations, perfect gifts, and perfect treats. Trying to find the perfect outfit for special holiday performances and events always seems to be an issue in our household. Then there's the pressure to find just the right gift for family and friends. It can all become quite a bit to handle, and the holidays begin to lose their true meaning.

I see the same thing happening to students from time to time. The pressure to have perfect grades and perfect behavior. But perfection is not only unrealistic, it's exhausting. For many of our students, that same mindset can creep into school and activities. Some children become so afraid of not doing something perfectly that they hesitate to even try. Whether it's signing up for a new class, trying a new activity, or tackling a difficult assignment, fear of failure can quietly hold them back.

One of the greatest gifts we can give our children is permission to be imperfect. Talk with your child about times you've made mistakes and what you learned from them. Help them see that effort, curiosity, and persistence matter far more than getting something "just right."

When we praise hard work and resilience instead of perfect results, kids begin to understand that growth happens through trying, stumbling, and trying again.

This season, let's give ourselves — and our kids — a little grace. The best memories and lessons rarely come from things going perfectly; they come from the messy, funny, unexpected moments that remind us we're all learning together. We wish you a Merry Christmas and blessed New Year.

Mrs. Tara Hofmann, Principal

ATTENTION SENIORS & SENIOR PARENTS:

The yearbook needs your information… a senior photo, a baby photo, and a quote you would like to have included in the yearbook. Please have this into Mrs. Hayes by February 2nd. Email your photos and information to Mrs. Hayes at jennifer.hayes@k12.nd.us If you would prefer, you can drop the photos off and Mrs. Hayes will scan them and return them to you that same day.

Congratulations on making it through the first semester of your last year! Enjoy the last half of your high school career!

MUSIC DEPARTMENT NEWS

Christmas Concerts

The High School (7th-12th) Christmas concert will be held Thursday, December 4th at 7:30pm and will include 7th & 8th band, 7th & 8th choir, HS band, and HS choir. Dress code for girls is a black dress and black shoes (a black skirt with black shirt is also acceptable). 7th & 8th grade boys need to wear black pants, a white shirt, and black shoes. A tie is optional. High School boys' dress code is black pants, black shoes, and the shirts and ties that have been ordered for them.

The elementary students will present "Jingle Bell Jukebox…the Flip Side!" on Thursday, December 11th at 7:00pm. Performing groups include the Kindergarten class, 1st-3rd choir, 4th-6th choir, 5th grade band, and 6th grade band. All students can wear nice dress clothes of their choice.

See you in December!

Another Successful Kuchen Fundraiser

Thank you to everyone who supported the music department by purchasing kuchen! Students and parents baked 1,407 kuchen on November 14-15 at Crystal Springs Baptist Camp. All proceeds will be used for our March 2027 band and choir trip to Branson. Until next year…

Medina Ambulance District Update

Medina Ambulance Service would like to thank and congratulate Jared Opp for 33 years of service to the Medina Ambulance Service as an EMT and EMR. Jared retired in September and received a plaque in recognition of his service to the community. His last day of service was September 8, 2025. Congratulations, again, on your retirement!

Medina Ambulance offered an EMT (Emergency Medical Technician) course over the fall of 2024 through spring of 2025. From this course, Medina Ambulance Service has added two EMTs to our service. Dalton Dockter was an EMR (Emergency Medical Responder) on our service and is now an EMT. Aiden Greer was in the EMT course and is now an EMT on our ambulance service. This fall we have welcomed a new member to the service, as well. Madi Clemens, is new to the area and is an RN and EMT.

If you are interested in helping the community and providing an essential service by joining the ambulance service as an EMR or EMT, there are training opportunities coming up soon. We are always in need of new members to join the ambulance service. Contact Brian Rau, Jenn Hayes or Renae Olson for more information.

WE HAVE SOME EXCITING NEWS to share with the community. We are planning to purchase a new ambulance. Our current ambulance is getting up in age and will need to be replaced to continue to provide essential emergency medical services to the area. Once the order is placed, it will take about 2 years to take possession of the ambulance and will cost $350,000. We had applied for a 2025 Community Block Grant but we were not awarded this grant. We will continue to look for more grants to help pay for the new ambulance. In addition to looking for grants, we will be starting a fundraising campaign to raise the necessary funds to cover the costs of the ambulance. We have already received some very nice sized donations from area charity organizations. Thank you to those organizations for the support! Any donation, large or small, is very much appreciated. It will go towards this worthwhile cause and is tax deductible. We are confident that the communities of Medina and the surrounding areas, those that our ambulance service covers in case of emergencies, will help to see this through in purchasing this much needed new ambulance.

We have 2 years, so come on MEDINA and SURROUNDING AREAS, We Can Do It!

How I Would Make a Thanksgiving Turkey for my Family!

(According to the Kindergarten Class — Recipes not kitchen tested)

Kamden: Turkey from Walmart. Then I am going to cook it in the oven at 500 degrees for 1000 hours. We will have chocolate milk, no stuffing, for dessert every kind of ice-cream and chocolate.

Hazel: My turkey is from Walmart. When I get it home I'll cook it in the oven at really hot and 9 hours. When it's done put it on a plate. We will have strawberry cake, apple juice, and chocolate donuts.

Colt: Me and my dad are going to go hunting at my grandmas in the woods at grandma Becky's. Once we get it we will load it in the back of our truck. We will cut it up, put it on the grill for a trillion hotness and dad will say he will be careful not to burn it. I hope it's a 5-star meal. I'll have some noodles, mom said maybe we will have peanut butter and jelly with it, stuffing, to drink Dr. Pepper, and ice-cream for dessert.

Aven: My turkey will come from a farm. I'm going to cook it at grandma and grandpas house. Cook it on the oven at 28 degrees for 24 minutes. We will eat meat, milk or juice, and for dessert chocolate cake.

Calli: I am going to shoot my turkey. Going to cook it at my oven at 9 degrees for 2 hours. I'll have mashed potatoes, mac n cheese, chocolate milk to drink, and cupcakes with rainbow frosting and pink sprinkles.

Paxton: I think my dad will hunt it. I think we have an oven to cook it in I don't know about ovens how hot to cook it. Aw I think 20 minutes to cook it. I think we will have water or milk; my mom will have mashed potatoes for us. Dessert will be vanilla ice-cream.

Declan: Will get my turkey from Walmart. Once home cook it on the grill for 7 minutes. We will eat potatoes, chicken, salad, milk. I want my grandma's brownies for dessert.

Natalie: We will shoot our turkey. Cook it in the oven at 4 degrees for 41 minutes. We will have Oreo ice-cream, carrots, bananas, apples, and sprite to drink.

Alayna: From the store Walmart. Will cook it in the oven at 20 degrees for 21minutes. Once it's done we will have Oreo ice-cream, brownies, chocolate cupcakes, we will drink coke. And we will have pumpkin pie.

Jorgia: Going to get it from Walmart. Cook it in the oven 1 degree for 4 minutes. We will have green beans, mac n cheese. We will drink water and have chocolate ice cream for dessert.

We may not know whose family will end up with the "BEST" turkey, but we wish you all a Thanksgiving filled with laughter, joy, and maybe a little friendly turkey rivalry! Safe travels and may your stuffing be plentiful!

Tips Families Can Use to Help Children Do Better in School

Help your elementary schooler develop math fact fluency

Math fluency is similar to being fluent in a language. Fluent math students know that 2 + 2 = 4 without having to think about it, just as they know "Hello" is a greeting. Being able to recall math facts automatically lets your child focus on the more complex aspects of solving problems.

To strengthen your child's fluency in math:

- Use counters. Small items like dry beans or buttons help students "see" numbers and processes. Your child can put several pennies in a cup, dump them out and add those that land on "heads" plus those that land on "tails." Then, have your child add the tails number to the heads number. Or, subtract the heads number from the total number of coins.
- Play Math War. Remove face cards from a deck and deal the rest face down. Each player flips over two cards. In Addition War, each player adds the numbers on their cards, and the one with the higher sum wins all the cards. In Subtraction War, each player subtracts their smaller number from their larger one: the one with the larger difference wins the cards.
- Choose a number, such as the date. Ask your child to come up with as many addition and subtraction facts as possible that equal that number. On the 15th, your child might think of 20 - 5, 7 + 8 and 10 + 15.

Fill winter break with learning fun

The thought of days of free time during a school break can inspire joy in students—and mild panic in their families. To avoid hearing "I'm bored" from your child, plan a few enjoyable activities that promote learning:

- Volunteer as a family. Turn your child's attention from the "I wants" to helping others who are less fortunate.
- Cook together. Help your child make seasonal foods you remember from your childhood. Share your memories.
- Read and watch. Choose a book that has been made into a movie. Read it together, and then watch the movie. Discuss how the two are alike and different.
- Explore first-person history. Help your child interview relatives—even you—about life in the past. Together, brainstorm a list of questions, such as, "What was school like for you when you were my age?" and "What trends were popular?" Have your child record or write down the conversations.

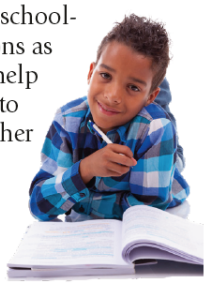

Kindness is empowering

It's true that children aren't always kind to one another. But your child doesn't have to accept unkindness as the norm. Talk together about ways to respond if a classmate is being treated unkindly. Then, challenge your child to do at least one nice thing for a classmate each week. Explain that your child has the power to make a difference.

Say 'no' to multitasking

It isn't really possible to concentrate on many things at once. Research shows that when students multitask, their minds just switch quickly between tasks without focusing on any.

When your child does schoolwork, eliminate distractions as much as possible. Then, help your child schedule time to do tasks consecutively, rather than at the same time. Limit multitasking to activities that don't need attention, like eating a snack while chatting.

Check off responsibilities

Checklists are useful tools that can help your child remember to fulfill responsibilities without being reminded. Sit down together and make a list of responsibilities your child is ready to handle independently. Here is a starter list you can adapt:

- Get up on time.
- Complete schoolwork.
- Read at least 20 minutes a day.
- Take care of personal hygiene.

Agree on consequences for shirking. And be sure to praise your child for a job well done!

Tips Families Can Use to Help Children Do Better in School — December 2025

Q&A How can I teach fairness to my highly competitive kids?

Q: My children are so competitive that it's an issue. My younger child cries after losing, and the older one sometimes cheats when my back is turned. How can I teach them to be good sports?

A: Whether children are competing in games, in the classroom or in life, they need to learn how to play fairly and accept the results. To help your children learn these lessons:

- Explain that fair play is important. Make it clear you expect them to play by the rules and be gracious to opponents—win or lose.
- Set time limits. Establish a time to stop playing and set a timer before the game starts. When it goes off, the game is over.
- Be gentle when correcting your children for making a wrong move. Just explain what the player should do instead.
- Discourage cheating. Review the rules at the start of the game. If a child tries to cheat, just repeat the rules. The second time, calmly say, "When you don't play by the rules, people get upset. If it happens again, the game is over."
- Reject trash talk. Every poke, put-down or unkind comment earns the player a foul. Five fouls, and the player is out.

Parent Quiz Are you teaching your child to move on?

Disappointments happen to all students from time to time. Events are canceled, games are lost, friendships fade. Are you helping your child learn to move forward after letdowns? Answer yes or no to the questions below:

___1. Do you help your child see what can't be changed and what can? "You can't change the weather. But you can change your plans."

___2. Do you talk about things to learn from mistakes? "Next time, you can start studying a few days earlier."

___3. Do you explain that it is OK to express feelings, but not OK to sulk?

___4. Do you teach your child to expect the unexpected and respond in positive ways?

___5. Do you help your child brainstorm next steps to take?

How well are you doing?

More yes answers mean you are helping your child learn to cope with disappointment. For each no, try that idea.

"You may not control all the events that happen to you, but you can decide not to be reduced by them."
—Maya Angelou

Discuss respectful behavior

When children behave respectfully toward teachers, classmates and school staff, they help create the positive academic environment all students need to learn. Remind your child that it's important to:

- Be courteous to everyone.
- Raise a hand and wait to be called on, and avoid interrupting others.
- Listen when the teacher or classmates are speaking.
- Accept constructive feedback from the teacher politely. Teachers point out mistakes so students can learn from them.

Play with punctuation

Punctuation makes writing easier to read and understand. Here's a fun way to get this point across to your child and provide some practice at the same time:

1. Write a short story and remove the punctuation.
2. Ask your child to read it aloud. It's challenging!
3. Edit the story together, adding punctuation that makes it easy (or funny) to read. Talk about why you are choosing—or not choosing—certain marks. Then, let your child write a story for you to punctuate.

Let your child tackle it first

Students gain skills and confidence when they learn to do things for themselves. Let your child take the lead with:

- Addressing confusion about schoolwork or grades. Ask your student to talk to the teacher about it before you step in.
- Solving minor issues with peers. Discuss things your child can do.

If issues persist or are serious, such as bullying, contact the school yourself right away.
