Mrs. Boring

About Me:

This will be my 11th year in education, with experience teaching in the classroom and the last 5 years at Washington Irving as the lower counselor. I am a wife, a human mom, and a dog & plant mom! My son is in kindergarten this year at Washington Irving. I love to read, watch tv with my husband, and go on adventures with Asher. I believe that everyone is capable of learning, but in order for that to happen they must first feel safe and loved. My role at Washington Irving is to help each child see that they are safe, loved, and capable of doing any wonderful thing that they set their mind to do!

My Favorites:

Snacks: Trader Joe's Taki's, yogurt, protein bars
Drink: Strawberry Sunrise Alani/Grape Water
Food: Hideaway, Cracker Barrel, and Around the Corner
Dessert: Anything lemon or pumpkin
Season: Fall
Team: Dallas Cowboys, NY Yankees, OU,Thunder
Color: Orange and Greens
Authors: Sarah Dessen, Frieda McFadden
Movies: Holes and The Sandlot
Animal: Llamas & Alligators - and dogs
Flower: Lilies and sunflowers

My why for being in education:

I became a school counselor because I believe every child deserves at least one adult at school who sees them, believes in them, and reminds them they matter. My goal is to create a safe, welcoming space where students feel heard, supported, and loved. If I can make even one student feel seen, loved, and capable each day, then I've made a difference.
