Goal 3: Build the individual and collective capacities of teachers, support staff, and administrators to address the academic, behavioral, and social-emotional learning needs of students within a multi-tiered system of supports.

IMPLEMENTATION PLAN 2022-2023	UPDATE 2023-2024	UPDATE 2024-2025
Action 1: Supplement district-wide training by providing site-specific MTSS, PBIS, and SEL coaching within the existing training model to emphasize whole child support and focus on reinforcing best practices related to trauma-informed instruction, culturally responsive teaching, and restorative practices.	To support the academic, behavioral, and social-emotional needs of TK–12 students, RSUSD partnered with the Kings County Office of Education to provide training in Positive Behavior Interventions and Supports (PBIS) and implement Restorative Practices at every school site. Each school also established a multidisciplinary C.O.S.T. (Coordination of Services Team) to regularly assess and address both individual student needs and broader school-wide supports.	RSUSD maintains its partnership with Kings COE to deliver contracted services, including targeted coaching and professional development in academic content areas, PBIS, and MTSS. Each school site's C.O.S.T. (Coordination of Services Team) meets regularly to ensure referred students receive timely, coordinated academic, behavioral, and social-emotional supports. Each school site has established an Attendance Team that supports daily check-ins, assigns attendance buddies, and offers incentives to improve student attendance and reduce chronic absenteeism. Wayfinder curriculum was purchased to support students' social-emotional learning, foster positive school culture, and build essential life and leadership skills.	The partnership contract with Kings COE remains in place for targeted coaching and professional development services C.O.S.T and Attendance teams continue to meet on a regular basis to address students in need of academic, behavioral, and social-emotional supports The Wayfinder Curriculum is in use at each site to support students' social-emotional learning, foster positive school culture, and build essential life and leadership skills

Action 2: Support professional development across content areas selected based on results of eight sites fidelity integrity assessment to be administered twice per year in collaboration with Kings County office of education to assess district and site level strengths and weaknesses in the areas of collaborative leadership, integrated instructional framework, family and community engagement, and policy structure and practice.	RSUSD uses state and local assessment results, staff, student parent survey results, DLAC, ELAC, School Site Council, CCSPP Steering Committee members, and Community Partners to gather input to determine the supports needed to meet district and site goals. RSUSD partners with King County Office of Education and Fresno County Office of Education to provide Leadership coaching, ELD, math CTE, MTSS, and Art Education support, as well as support staff training. RSUSD implements a continuous improvement process using multiple cycles of inquiry; the five key phases include evaluating effectiveness, alignment with goals, developing an action plan, implementing the action plan, and reviewing results. Teachers engage in the Professional Learning Community activities to disaggregate assessment results and refine instructional strategies.	RSUSD continues to use data, input, and feedback to drive informed decision-making. In 2025, schools utilized state and local assessment, along with feedback from staff, students, and families—gathered through surveys, DLAC and ELAC meetings, School Site Councils, the CCSPP Steering Committee, and community partners—to identify and prioritize the supports needed to achieve strategic goals. RSUSD maintains partnerships with Kings COE and Fresno COE to provide coaching and support in areas such as English Language Development (ELD), mathematics, Career Technical Education, Multi-Tiered System of Supports, and arts education. Professional development ensures staff are equipped to meet student needs. Teachers use cycles of inquiry, analyze assessment data, share effective practices, and refine instructional strategies to enhance student outcomes.	In order to ensure informed decision-making, RSUSD continues to partner with Kings County Office of Education and Fresno County Office of Education and uses multiple data sources, along with input from staff, parent advisory groups, community partners, and survey results to identify and prioritize needs and assets and align professional development topics.
