Hanson School District Patrons:

The Hanson School District was officially formed in 1968, with its first graduating class in the spring of 1969. The district was established through the consolidation of the Farmer, Fulton, and Alexandria School Districts.

Those of you who have attended an event at the Auditorium on Main Street are likely familiar with the Farmer, Fulton, and Alexandria sign displayed in the building. For those who may not have seen it, the attached picture will serve as a reminder of this important piece of our school's history.

The Hanson School would like to display a similar sign in the main gymnasium, which is currently used for most of our school activities. We believe it is important to continue recognizing and honoring the communities that came together to form the Hanson School District and the lasting impact they have had on our school and its traditions.

Over the next several months, the district will be offering surplus Hanson Athletic items for sale starting with the royal blue sideline chairs that teams have sat on. All proceeds from these sales will go toward the purchase of a new sign recognizing the former school districts that make up today's Hanson School.

We are asking for your help in sharing this message with Hanson alumni who may not receive communications directly from the school.

Thank you for helping us preserve our history, celebrate our traditions, and recognize the communities that helped build the Hanson School District we know today.
