Weekly Update

What a wonderful first week of school! Dwyer has been filled with smiles, laughter, learning, and lots of positive energy.

Throughout the week, I had opportunities to visit classrooms, connect with students and staff, and watch our school routines start to take shape. From learning new classroom expectations and reconnecting with friends to navigating arrival, dismissal, lunch, and everything in between, our students have done a terrific job settling in.

As with every first week, we have been learning and adjusting along the way. I am incredibly appreciative of the patience, flexibility, and partnership of our families and staff as we work to make our routines safe and smooth for our students.

Most importantly, this week reminded me what makes Dwyer such a special place: our people.

After a busy first week, I hope everyone has a chance to relax, recharge, and enjoy the weekend! See you Monday!
