what your child should study

School Spelling Bee Study List

Start with the School Spelling Bee Study List, which includes 450 useful and fascinating words. Our school spelling bee will begin with words from this list, but you may see words not on the list in later rounds as the competition gets tougher. Your child will benefit from studying these words whether they study every one or just the 50 at their grade level!

Word Club App

Your child can also study with Word Club, the free app that includes fun word games and quizzes. The Word Club app is free to download from the App Store or Google Play, and it includes all 450 words on the School Spelling Bee Study List plus all 4,000 words on Words of the Champions.

YOUR KEY TO THE BEE

Words of the Champions

Is your child ready for a challenge? Once they have mastered all the words on the School Spelling Bee Study List, they can move on to the Words of the Champions, the 4,000-word study list for regional spelling bees.

This resource also includes a section with information about using language patterns and roots to level up their word knowledge plus bonus content like word stories and puzzles. Visit www.spellingbee.com/study-tips for even more advice from the Bee.

about the bee

Your child is one of an estimated 11 million students who will begin an unforgettable journey this fall in classrooms across America. Some will go on to compete in spelling bees at the regional qualifier and regional levels. The best of the best will advance to the national competition in Washington, D.C.

No matter what path their journey follows, your child will gain knowledge in spelling and vocabulary that will help them shine their light on the world.

Participating in spelling bees will help your child:

- inspire a lifelong love of learning
- develop vocabulary and language skills
- gain confidence and camaraderie with their fellow students
- strengthen life skills like sportsmanship and goal setting
- practice poise and public speaking
