Drama

One-Act Play

By: Lucas Bible

Every school year, Mrs.Gleason directs and presents a play to the Summit School and parents. The decided play was titled “Cheating Death,” written by Kamron Klitgaard; its premise involved a group of people in a psychiatric office waiting for a group therapy session avoiding Death from taking one of their session members early. This selection was canceled.. The replacement for this play was a monologue titled “Accents Inc.” written by John C. Havens.

This monologue was given by Luke Chapin at the Region 6B One-Act Play festival on January 28th.

Social Media Presenter

By: Joely Nyvold

On January 7th, Brett Garland from Homeland Security came to Summit School to give a presentation to the students and community members. He came in to explain the dangers of online predators. He talked about internet safety and talking to adults if there is a problem. He is the regional rep and our school invited him to speak. The only difference between the talk with the adults and the kids was he talked to the adults about specific dangerous websites. Garland is originally from Rosholt, SD.

Snow Week

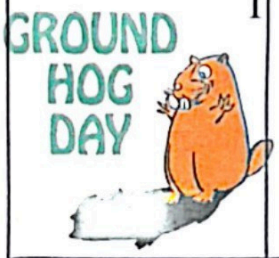

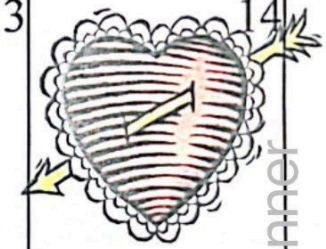

By: Brett Hinkelman

Snow week was from January 19th to 22nd. Alvan Jackson was crowned king, and Echo O'Riley was crowned queen. Monday's dress-up day was jersey day. Tuesday's dress-up day was anything but a backpack or crazy hat day. Wednesday's dress-up day was PJ day. Thursday's dress-up day was I hate winter day. On Thursday, there was a dodgeball game. The seniors played Senior Feud with the royalty battling the rest of the class. The royalty lost the game. Congratulations to our royalty, Alvan and Echo!
