SMITHVILLE H.S. SMITHVILLE, OKLA.

FOREWORD

In the years to come as you scan the pages of this yearbook, we, the Brave staff of 1968, hope it brings back your most cherished memories of your school years while attending the Smithville school. You may use this yearbook as a magic mirror to see yourself in the past, present, and the future. We hope to help you recall, with little effort, those who have graduated, the activities of the lower classes of today, and your future activities in school and in your life.

We are happy to present the 1968 Brave to you, the student body, for whom it was created, and from whom inspiration came to build its pattern.

Enjoy it to the fullest.

Cordially yours,
Paul Plunkett, Editor

Assistant Editors,
Diane Finley
Lynn Bengé

DEDICATION

The faculty members have served our school longer than all the total years of our entire faculty. Today, they teach Modern Math and Space Craft Formulas. Yesterday, they taught our fathers and mothers--Reading--Writing and Arithmetic. Yes, they have stayed up-to-date by attending college regularly. Now they both hold their Masters degrees. Miss Geneva Weaver and Mrs. Clarice Scott, we proudly dedicate this our 1968 yearbook to you.

The Annual Staff and Sponsor

SUPERINTENDENT OF SCHOOLS . . .

Congratulations to the Annual Staff on your effort and perseverance in producing the 1967-68 yearbook. Your leadership and charitable spirit serves as a worthwhile contribution to our school. It is a good example of the type of citizenship displayed by our student body as a whole. I pledge my cooperation to the student body to do my part in maintaining the amiable and enjoyable atmosphere that thus far has made 1967-68 one of my most enjoyable school years ever.

Mr. Eberle

HIGH SCHOOL PRINCIPAL . . .

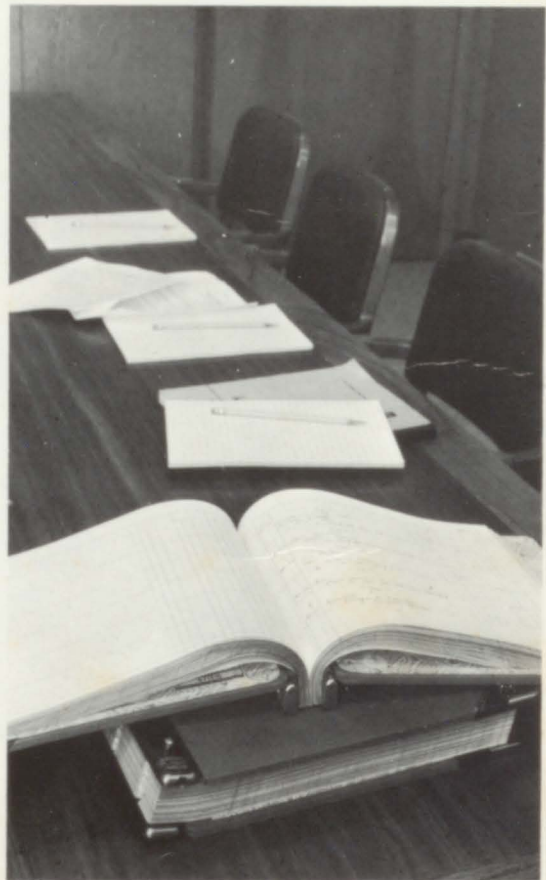

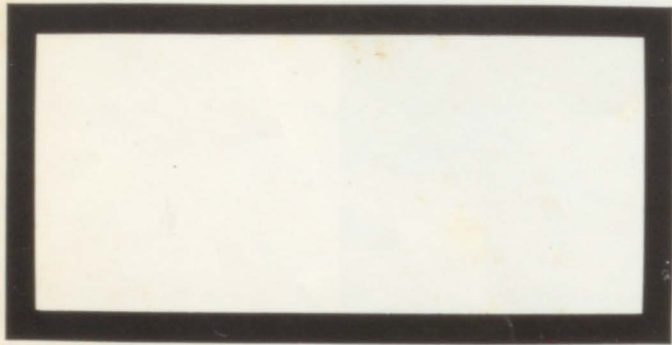

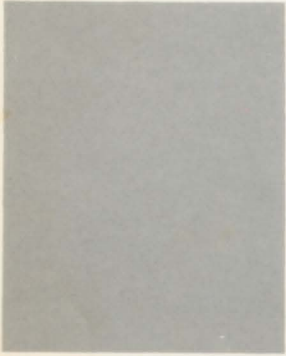

To the Graduating Class of 1968

As the gates of SHS behind you close and young America greets your challenge with its abundance of opportunity, it is my fervent wish that each of you prepare fully, work diligently, live uprightly, and enjoy the fruits of a happy, successful life.
