Strengthen every teacher's impact, especially when they teach alone

In every small school district, there are educators who carry the full weight of a subject, grade level, or course on their own. No team. No built-in collaboration. Just one teacher responsible for ensuring every student learns at high levels.

These singletons are often some of your most dedicated educators, but without the right support, they can also be the most isolated.

Singletons in a PLC at Work®, our on-demand webinar, presented by experts Brig Leane and Jon Yost, shows you how to bring all educators into the collaborative process in meaningful, practical ways. This learning experience equips school leaders and teachers with proven strategies to on-ramp singletons to the PLC process, strengthen instruction, and ensure no teacher or student is left to navigate learning alone.
