West Ada Superintendent Announces Cancer Diagnosis, Will Continue Leading District During Treatment

Meridian, Idaho — West Ada School District Superintendent Dr. Derek Bub announced today that he has been diagnosed with cancer. He received the diagnosis last week and will begin treatment immediately.

Fortunately, the cancer was caught very early, and doctors expect Dr. Bub to make a full recovery. He plans to continue serving as Superintendent while undergoing treatment, with the support of the district's Executive Team.

"My family and I are still processing the news, but I am approaching this the same way I approach every challenge—with determination and optimism," said Dr. Bub. "I remain committed to the students, staff, and families of West Ada and am excited to kick off a new school year."

District officials emphasized that school operations, district leadership, and services for students and staff will continue uninterrupted.

"The most important work in our district happens in our classrooms," Dr. Bub said. "Our teachers, support staff, and school leaders are exceptional, and because of them, our students will continue to receive the outstanding educational experience they deserve."

West Ada Board of Trustees Chair Lori Frasure expressed the Board's confidence in Dr. Bub and the district's leadership team.

"The Board of Trustees has complete trust in Dr. Bub and the Executive Team," said Frasure. "West Ada is fortunate to have an experienced leadership team that is fully prepared to ensure district operations remain seamless. Our families can be confident that the important work happening in our schools will move forward without interruption while Dr. Bub is given the flexibility and support he needs during his treatment and recovery."

West Ada School District is grateful for the encouragement and well wishes already being extended to Dr. Bub and his family. The district will share updates when appropriate while respecting Dr. Bub's privacy.
