THE Shape WE'RE IN

A Victory Win!

Misti Mokros, Tracy Eichacker, Heather Kreutzfeldt, Heather Bjerke, Jessica Peterson, and others congratulate one another on a victory win.

Shape of the School

McCook Central High School went under some remodeling projects over the summer. One was painting the top of the windows brown.

The shape of things

The activities of McCook Central are a good example of “the shape we’re in,” or for some, it’s “the shape we’re not in” — that being the physical sense.

A large majority of the student body chose to participate in some sports as an extracurricular activity. Others chose to take part in organizations such as FHA, FFA, in the one-act plays or the musical, journalism, the music department, or leadership positions. Many students were also actively involved in the community, either by volunteering their services or holding jobs.

The past year proved to be challenging for the communities that make up McCook Central. Severe flood waters raged through the area causing unplanted crops and crop loss. Surrounding areas experienced flooded homes and disrupted lives. Spencer Elementary also experienced flood damage severe enough that the building will have to be replaced.

The school board shaped the next year’s budget with cuts including eliminating funding for fifth and sixth grade basketball as well as summer band.

Students shape the school. People of all different kinds are what keep the school year moving, and those people are also the ones who shape the future.

THE Shape WE'RE IN

Although it seemed everybody had things to do and places to be, students still found time to socialize in and out of school. Attending sports and other school sponsored activities was one way of passing the time. In school students found a few minutes between classes to talk as well as during some of their classes. During the last nine weeks of school seniors were granted senior privileges. In order to keep their privileges seniors had to meet several requirements. As early as February students were roaming the halls in shorts. It seemed spring fever had hit even earlier this year and it seemed to have hit all of the ...

Teachers on the move

As usual, the school year is hectic for all the teachers, but for some this year is even more bothersome because of the many teachers moving.

The teachers that have moved include Mr. Andal, Mrs. Anderson, Mr. Cheesman, Mr. Grady, Mr. & Mrs. Harms, Mr. & Mrs. Keehn, Mr. Pfann, Mrs. Pistulka, Mr. Wilkins, and Mrs. Vinz. Some of the teachers have ironically moved into another moving teacher's last house. These teachers include Mr. Grady who moved into Mr. Cheeseman's last house, Mr. Pfann who moved into Mr. Wilkins' last house and Mr. Harms who moved into McCook Central's previous principal's

(Tom Ludens) house.

"Once the move was completed, it was much easier to concentrate on other things. The move was good for my son, Jonathan, because he is in a school that is better than his previous school," said Mr. Harms.

"Moving during the school year in itself is stressful, but selling the 'family farm' and machinery makes this event especially difficult. I've tried my best to keep the school work as 'normal' as possible. Everything will be settled in May, so I think it will be a good month for me," said Mrs. Vinz.

As you can see, moving for anybody is a difficult task, but for teachers it is especially tiring.

Teachers teach teachers

Finding a more creative way to teach and to assess students' work was one goal of teachers who attended the South Dakota Science and Math Teachers Associations or the Cornbelt Co-op Inservices.

The SD Science and Math Teachers Associations joint conference was held in Huron on February 4. Third grade teacher Mrs. Aldena Ecklein and fourth grade teacher Ms. Carolyn Shearer each presented a paper at the conference that gave examples and suggestions for alternative ways of assessing students in math and science.

Mrs. Ecklein and Ms. Shearer then jointly presented a paper titled, "What Do You Mean, No Workbooks Allowed?". They described the day before the first day of school when, at a meeting with the new principal, Trudie Myers, the teachers were informed all workbooks for the year had been cancelled. They then proceeded to tell of the events after the announcement.

A three-day summer workshop, Designing Alternative Assessments, was held in Pierre. Mrs. Aldena Ecklein, Mrs. Shirley Koepsell, Mrs. Trudie Myers, Mrs. LaVonne Norberg, and Mrs. Anna Kay Vinz were trained there and prepared a presentation for their peers at the Cornbelt Educational Cooperative on September 23 in Harrisburg. The inservice's goal was to give teachers different ideas of ways to assess students' work. The teachers then integrated these ideas into their classrooms.

Days of learning

This year the Spencer first and second grades were involved in many different activities. One of the big activities included Pilgrim's Day. Each student was asked to bring one food item from home so they could gather enough for a meal. At school the students cooked the food and invited their parents to join them in the feast.

Another exciting event all the grade school students participated in was the "100 Day" celebration. For this the students had to bring something that was 100 years old, or they could bring 100 of some item. Some of the things brought were 100 flowers, 100 pop tabs, and a one dollar bill over 100 years old brought by Tony Morehead.

Not only did the kids have a lot of fun, but they also learned new things in the process.

"I learned multiplication and how to tell time better," said Grant Hoefert.

Another highlight was the read-in. Here, they got to watch movies, eat popcorn, and read books. For the younger students coloring was quite fun, at least for Jacob Schoon.

Although most of the kids were anxious for school to get out, they had a year of activities designed to make learning fun.

Surf's up, dudes!

Ms. Shearer, the fourth grade teacher, challenged her students, to get a hundred percent on their spelling grade. If they did this, she promised them a beach party. Sure enough, they accomplished the goal.

At the beach party all the kids showed up in shorts and swimsuits. Some of their activities were swimming in a pool of styrofoam, playing volleyball, or just catching some rays under the classroom's big lights.

"Swimming in the pool and playing volleyball was the funnest," said Allison Klinkhamer.

Even though some of the students opinions differed, most of them enjoyed the pool and volleyball, and all of them managed to have a great time.

The beach party was held to challenge the students to work harder to get better grades. Not only did it help them with their spelling grades, but it also lifted their spirits, because of the dreary winter.

The students had a great time and begged to have another party the next week. The teacher's response, of course, was, "Are you kidding?"

Would she do it again? She said, "Yes."

Dancing with hoops

Dallas Chief Eagle was invited to the middle school to demonstrate the hoop dance and talk about Indian culture as part of a middle school focus unit on Native Americans.

During the day two sessions were held for each grade in the middle school, and much to the delight of any observers, they were invited to "come on down" and learn the dances.

One of the dances was the hoop of four cultures.

Seventh grader Becky Mokros said, "We learned many different dances. Some of them included the flower dance and the butterfly."

In the evening each middle school class got to show off their skills in a program for the public.

Also, there were awards honoring Mr. Jim Muller and Mrs. LaVonne Norberg as people who have had a positive influence with the hoops and a people's dance in which everyone in the audience was invited to participate in the school.

Chief Eagle concluded the evening with a solo performance.

Chief Eagle's appearance was sponsored by the SD Arts Council and the SD Rural Arts Council.

Mindi Ecklein said, "I liked learning the hoop dance because it taught me about a different culture."

Missoula's second run

The Missoula Children's Theatre returned in November for the second year to present "Hansel and Gretel" using local talent.

The traveling theatre, directed by April Holladay and Bret Tuomi, conducted auditions and held practices for the Friday and Saturday night performances.

Kristina Ecklein, a cook, enjoyed the performances, but she said, "The costumes were really hot under the stage lights."

Some actors and actresses discovered they would have to memorize other people's lines besides their own. "I had to memorize Mitch's lines," said Brandy Stiefvater.

Other performers had to learn dance steps, requiring them to learn their right foot from their left. "The dance steps were confusing at first, but after a while we got it together," said Cristin Thompson.

Before the production, there was one last dress rehearsal followed by makeup. Some cast members had a first experience with stage makeup, worn to emphasize their facial expressions.

Even though there was mass confusion backstage with 50 people trying to change costumes and remember whether to enter stage right or stage left, the show was pulled off with a professional edge.

Freshman crack-ups

When you think of the freshman class, one unusual thing is their experience with automobiles. Almost two-thirds of them have been in an accident.

The more common accidents are just "fender-benders" or merely ending up in the ditch.

Also, there have been very unusual accidents such as Jamie Rotert's when he went through a plate glass window in the local Coast-to-Coast store. The acceleration pedal was caught under the floor mat and Rotert couldn't stop.

"I was really embarrassed, I couldn't believe what happened," said Rotert after the accident.

Then there is Kelly Schock, who has had more than his share of accidents. The first time his car was crunched up, he wasn't even driving. He lent it to a friend and she part way crumpled the hood.

Then, a month after the car was fixed, he was driving home at night. He looked over his shoulder to see how close another car was behind him, and when he turned around, he was approaching a curve in the road. He flew off the curve, bounced off snowbanks, went through a field, and was thrown out of the car and knocked unconscious. He had stitches in his hands, face, and left knee.

"I was lucky to be alive, you wouldn't of thought that anyone would have lived from that wreck after seeing the car," said Schock.

The name game

Nicknames are very popular with the sophomores at MCHS.

There were many reasons students acquired a nickname. They may have a nickname because of their first or last names. For example, Adam Peterson, "Pete"; Craig Nelson, "Nellie"; Mike Heumiller, "Heumi"; Derek Reif, "Dahookee"; Mark Havard, "Hazzard"; or Adrian Norris, "Chuck Norris."

Resembling a famous character or another individual were other reasons given for a nickname. For example, Jeremy Gross, "Biff", got his nickname because he looks like a character on "Back to the Future". Christy Pulse is called "Little Ruthie" because she resembles her older sister.

Some got their nicknames from their appearance like Brian VanEmmerik who is called "Ox" because of his height and size. Julie Lauck got her nickname "Fievel" because some people think she resembles the little mouse from "An American Tale". Other sophomores with unusual nicknames are John Koch, "Sess"; Chris Barnett, "Whoppo"; Mike Feterl, "Toonces"; John Ecklein, "Buzz"; Rachelle Jorgensen, "Roache"; and Diedre Heeren, "Deeredree".

When asked if students would rather be called by their real name or nickname most had no preference.

Finding time to sell

Friends. Relatives. Neighbors. The junior class found out it's not what you know, it's who you know when it came to selling magazines.

"It was difficult finding people to sell to outside of my relatives because it seemed like everybody was related to or knew somebody from our class," said Elisha Wulff.

The forty-two member class had three people with no sales.

"I had football and couldn't find the time to sell," said Chris Feterl.

The class of 1995 did set a new record. Cody Hoefert became the new all time high salesman with a sale of $1117.66.

"Selling a lot of magazines wasn't as hard as people may think. You just have to know people and how to communicate with those you may not like. You also have to know how to accept rejection. I love to go out and talk to people because I like people," said Hoefert.

The money raised will go for prom in the spring. There are many expenses like the band, the food for the banquet, and decorations for the auditorium.

"We made enough money to put on a nice prom," said junior class adviser Ms. Brenda Moerke.

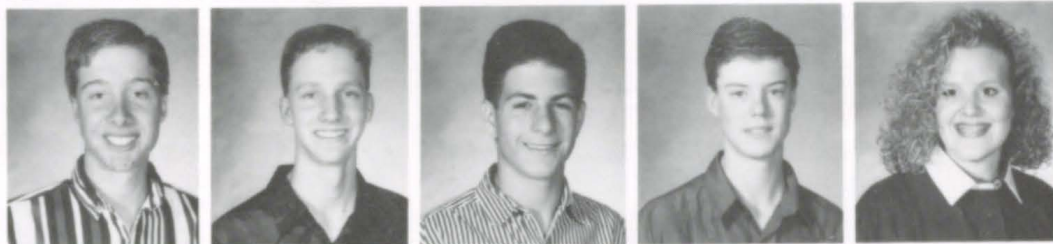

Although not everyone had friends, relatives, or neighbors to sell to, the junior class exceeded their goal of $7500 by over $1100.

Seniors excel at hobbies

Some seniors excelled at hobbies outside of school activities.

For Denise Gapp it was bowling. Gapp had been bowling for 15 years. Gapp has served as a youth leader for six years. Gapp's high game was 244; high series, 623; high average, 186; and she also had the highest average for Salem Girl's for seven years. Gapp traveled to the National Family Tournament in 1989, 1991, and 1992. Gapp has also earned $500 in scholarships and has received two Irene Brink Memorial Awards.

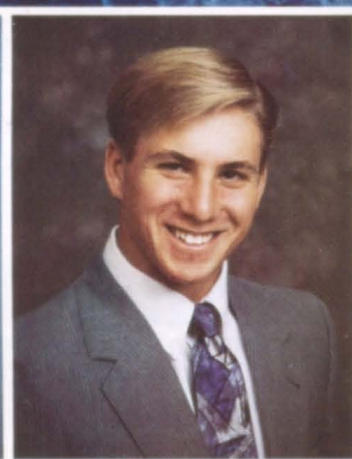

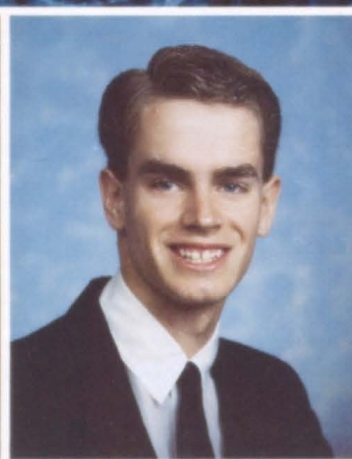

"If you have a talent that is 'different' from others, don't be afraid to pursue it, you don't know what you might miss out on," said horse lover Anna Koch.

At the age of five, Koch began her love for horses. Koch joined these organizations: The American Quarter Horse Association, American Junior Quarter Horse Association, Southeast SD Horse Show Association, and 4-H. Some awards Koch has won are Youth All-Around at the SD State Fair, State Grand Champion Western Riding for two years, and Hi-Point Youth Western Pleasure. She has won many Youth All-Around Runner-up awards.

Seniors finish careers

In 1989, band director Mr. Terry Keehn approached Emily Lunders and Robin Weber as eighth graders to be drum majors for the band, "A Touch of Class."

"I wasn't sure at first about taking the leadership role, but after talking it over with my parents, I decided to go for it because it would make me a more responsible person," said Weber.

Monday evening, October 25, 1993, was the last "hurrah" for them, as they made their final appearance as drum majors at the annual Potato Supper. The band performed in the new auditorium.

"The most difficult part is standing up to your peers, even though they may be your closest friends — and directing my last performance as a drum major for the home crowd," said Lunders.

Some of the girls' responsibilities included keeping everyone in line and knowing where everyone should be at a certain time.

Both girls would like to continue as drum majors in college.

"If I ever had the opportunity, I would definitely take that chance," said Lunders.

"The college I'm looking at doesn't have a marching band, but I will always have that dream," said Weber.

First four year class

On September 4, 1990, 27 Salem and 5 Spencer students walked into a new high school, McCook Central High School. The Class of 1994 became the first four year class of McCook Central High School.

"I liked coming to Salem from Spencer. I met a lot of new friends. I could be involved in a lot of activities," said Dana Burnham.

To make a total of 72 classes, each previous school brought with it some of their curriculum.

It was nice to stay at one school for all four years," said Jessica Snapper.

Everyone was offered something new in clubs. FBLA was set up for those Salem students who were interested in business, and Spencer students could participate in FFA and FHA. To make the boys and girls athletics equal, volleyball was offered.

"It was fine, because I made a lot of new friends," said Voni Hansen.

The junior class float, under the supervision of Mrs. Carol Pistulka, is being pulled down Main Street during the homecoming parade by Scott Gordon's pickup. Students not in marching band were given the option of riding on the float. The junior class received second place. With area businesses participating, there were nearly forty entries in the parade.

Week of activities

“Cereals,” the theme for Homecoming was selected by the student council.

Having only two hours after school to work on their floats, students had to work fast. Luckily on Wednesday school was not in session. That gave them a chance to get ahead.

“It gave my class a chance to do a little better,” said junior Chris Huls.

Friday, Sept. 24, at 1:30 p.m., the parade began. At 5:30 p.m. a tailgate party was held outside the armory.

“We had a real good turnout, even though we ran out of food,” said athletic booster president Mrs. Cathy Peterson.

Finally at 7:30 p.m. the football game was kicked off against the Madison Bulldogs.

“I felt bad about losing. I thought we could’ve done a better job of playing,” said quarterback Lee Mentele.

The annual homecoming dance followed at 10:30 p.m. in the All-Purpose Room. John Michaels provided the music.

PJ's to Togas

From pj's to togas homecoming week was filled with memories that will last for a lifetime.

All week students showed their school spirit by dressing up for the theme of the day. Those themes included Boxer Shorts Day, Toga Day, Opposite Sex Day, Pajama Day, and Green, Blue and Silver Day.

"I thought it was good that so many people showed their school spirit," said junior Chris Huls.

On the morning of Pajama Day, students gathered in the All Purpose Room for a dance before school started. At the end of the dance everyone sat and ate their cereal.

"It was neat to come to school and sit around and eat cereal and goof off with my friends," said junior Elisha Wulff.

Students were not the only people who got involved with the dress up days. Mrs. Keehn threatened to hide Mr. Keehn's clothes so he would have to come to school wearing Barney sheets on toga day, but in the end he came to school dressed normally.

Excitement mounted on coronation night, held Monday, September 20. The evening started when the football coaches and some players were asked to sit behind the stage curtain and take off their shoes and socks. Other players then tried to figure out whose feet they were.

Evan Gough, who emceed the event said, "I thought it was funny because our football coaches were up there; however, it got boring after a while watching the football guys trying to figure out whose feet were behind the curtain."

Chief Scott Chase and Princess Robin Weber were crowned by last year's royalty, Tony Kinzley and Lisa Lentz. Other royalty members included Heather Bjerke, Jamie Eldeen, Sarah Feterl, Heather Kreutzfeldt, Mike Lauck, Emily Lunders, Brad Olinger, and Owen Sandine.

"It was a great honor to be on royalty. Everyone's involvement throughout the week made homecoming a memorable experience," said senior Emily Lunders.

"Tunnel of Love" was decided as the theme and "I Swear" by John Michael Montgomery was decided as the song for Prom, 1994. Prom was held Saturday night, April 16 in the auditorium. Jon Michaels provided the music. Junior class meetings began in the winter and decorating began April 11. Mrs. Carol Pistulka, assisted prom adviser, Miss Brenda Moerke.

"I was really impressed with this year's junior class, despite the rumors I had heard. Prom turned out excellent," said Pistulka.

The junior/senior banquet began at 6:30 p.m. in the all-purpose room. The meal consisted of swiss steak, baked potato, corn, lettuce salad, and angel food cake.

"I enjoyed the banquet. Mr. Danielsen did an excellent job as guest speaker," said junior Chris Huls.

At 9:00 p.m. the Grand March began. It featured a tunnel made out of crushed construction paper, divided in two in which the guy came out on one side and met the girl on the other.

"I was nervous to see how it would turn out like, but it turned out really good," said senior Voni Hansen.

A record turnout of 167 students/dates attended the after prom party, sponsored by the parents.

Tonya-and-Nancy. The 1994 Winter

OlympicGames seemed to be centered around these two American figure skaters both competing for the gold.

When Nancy Kerrigan was attacked on January 6, 1994 at the National Figure Skating Finals in Detroit, Michigan it seemed a sure bet she wouldn't skate in the Olympics. She was, however, still named to the U.S. Olympic team by the United States Olympic Committee.

Later Tonya Harding's ex-husband Jeff Gillooly and her former bodyguard were found to have been involved in planning the attack. Gillooly then pointed the finger at Harding, who denied all allegations.

The USOC did allow Harding to skate in Lillehammer, Norway despite all the raised questions of her involvement in the attack.

In Norway, however, neither Harding nor Kerrigan got the gold. Kerrigan ended up with the silver and Harding with a disappointing eighth place. Kerrigan had several endorsements which included Campbell's Soup, Reebok shoes, Disney World, and Revlon. Harding however faced a criminal investigation when she returned to the United States.

That's what it's been called. Bill and Hillary Rodham Clinton's bad business decision made over 16 years ago still is talked about and debated. The Clintons invested in a northern Arkansas vacation-home development. After Clinton's first year in office Whitewater became a hot topic of discussion on both sides of Capitol Hill. The Republican party called for congressional hearings to determine exactly what happened in Arkansas so many years ago. Lawyer Robert Fiske was hired to conduct the investigation. He subpoenaed many Clinton aides to determine whether Whitewater was a cover-up or just a business deal gone bad.

Condemned

When damage to the Spencer school building was discovered during routine inspections by the superintendent and school board, they contacted a structural engineer and the fire marshall.

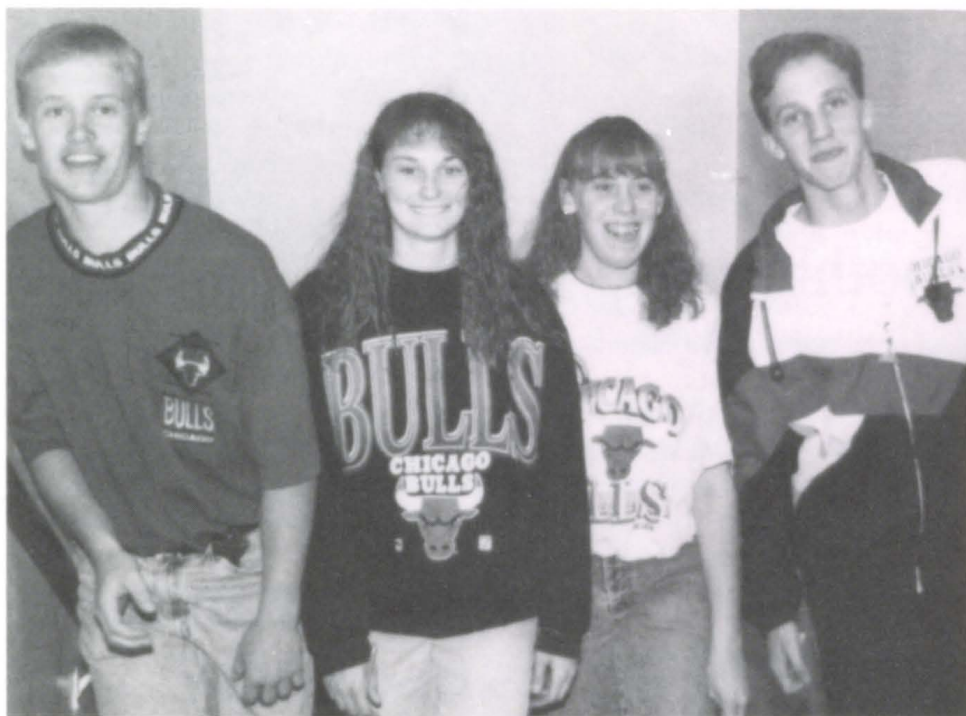

A special board meeting was held Monday, October 18 in Spencer. About 120 people attended. A panel of eight consultants provided recommendations.

Dr. Dallas Preheim, superintendent, explained that it would cost $196,248 to bring the building up to fire safety codes. The school also did not meet codes for handicapped and disabled accessibility.

Residents of the original Spencer district voted November 23 to continue having school at the Spencer site. On January 11 they voted to keep a K-6 school rather than changing to a K-4 center.

Rather than repair the old building, the school board purchased three frame-built relocatable buildings constructed by Mitchell Technical Institute. They were delivered to the Spencer site in August.

"It's a shame they have to take down a building that holds so many memories for so many people. Maybe if our school leaders would put a little money and effort they could keep that building. What's the difference if they put $100,000 into a new shack or if they put $100,000 into refixing that building that has a beautiful stage and a gym. It's really too bad," said former Spencer student, junior Cody Hoefert.

L. A. earthquake

Devastation was felt by many Southern Californians, Monday morning, January 17, 1994 around 4:31 a.m. PST, as Los Angeles residents woke up to an earthquake measuring 6.6 on the Richter scale. The area hit was the San Fernando Valley, 20 miles northwest of downtown Los Angeles. Some suburbs hit hardest were Northridge, Sylmar, Sun Valley, and Sherman Oaks.

"It was scary because I was in the downtown Los Angeles area, just three weeks before the earthquake," said junior Cristin Thompson.

Traffic lights were out in downtown Los Angeles as well as the valley, and power was disrupted as far away as Canada.

The quake was felt as far northeast as Las Vegas, 275 miles away; and to the south, San Diego, 125 miles away.

Interstate 5, the state's major north-south route was among the worst hit by the quake. Roads connecting to it collapsed. Three state highways and five interstates were closed. Two hundred thousand people were without water, and by Monday evening, at least 680,000 L.A. county residents were without power.

By Wednesday morning, 42 deaths were reported.

Ecklein's dog was running at large one morning. A city officer noticed it and after chasing it for a while, shot the dog because the dog was not tied up or under supervision.

In the 70's disco was popular, the 80's rock came into the picture, but in the 90's country became very dominant.

KTWB 102 FM started in 1990 as Sioux Falls's "lead dog." Then in August the greatly admired Sioux Falls area rock station 97.3 KPAT turned into KAT Country. There were a few words to say about that.

"It made me very mad that they switched," said junior Rachelle Reif.

But the country war was not over. On October 4, a new radio station came to life. It was KKLS and KXRB's sister station, KIKN. The country station's tower is located four miles south and three miles east of Bridgewater.

"Somewhere Somehow"

Wednesday, May 18, seniors filed into the auditorium for the baccalaureate service, held at 8:00 p.m. The McCook Central Choir sang "Stronger With Time."

The six juniors with the highest GPA's were named as junior escorts. They were Nick Gottlob, Andy Kinzley, Brian Rotert, Sheri Taylor, Cristin Thompson, and Elisha Wulff. Pastor Mark Dickson delivered a message.

"I thought baccalaureate service was very good — he did a good job of speaking," said Voni Hansen.

Commencement exercises began at 2:00 p.m. Sunday, May 22, in the auditorium. Greg Rabenhorst earned valedictorian honors and Dean VanEmmerik was the salutatorian.

The senior song was "Somewhere Somehow" sung by Greg Rabenhorst, Voni Hansen, and Brenda VanOrmer. The flower was a white rose tipped with jade. The class of '94 colors were purple and jade.

The class motto was "We Treasure Yesterday Knowing That Today Will Be Gone Tomorrow."

Class history was given by Heather Bjerke, Heather Kreutzfeldt, Emily Lunders, and Robin Weber.

A new twist to the day's activities was a slide show which included each senior's baby picture and senior portrait and candid shots of early childhood, grade and high school activities, and fun times with friends. The show was set to music.

Eight seniors served as honor graduates. They were Heather Bjerke, Scott Feiner, Ryan Klinkhammer, Anna Koch, Bradley Olinger, Greg Rabenhorst, Jessica Snapper, and Dean VanEmmerik.

"The graduation ceremony was very hot and we just wanted it to be over with. It was long, but it was good," said Brenda VanOrmer.

Cross country team matches effort with trip to state

"Marvelous, in fact both boys' and girls' teams did well," said girls' coach Mr. Wes Bjerke when reflecting on the season.

The boys placed second in state and the girls, in spite of having only three runners, were among the leaders in every race.

Based on his performance in the state meet, John Ecklein received an All-State Top Twenty-Five Award. The SD Cross Country and Track Coaches Association combined the state meet times of runners from class AA, A, and B and the top 25 runners overall received an award.

Workouts began on a hot summer day with a strong distance run. Endurance workouts continued in the mornings during the summer and afternoons when school started. Often the four to six mile workouts were capped off with a game of wiffle ball or a popsicle.

"The team had longer workouts. More uphill running and great athletes all contributed to the success of the team," said Mr. Gene Danielsen.

John Ecklein agreed. "The hill workouts really helped when we got to Madison and had to run a tough course," said Ecklein.

It was not uncommon for the team to stretch out then file into the school van to be driven out to a hilly stretch of road and be given directions on where to run.

Ryan Klinkhammer summed up the season when he said, "I'm glad I went out."

Football team kicks off season by starting 11-man

The McCook Central Cougars opened their season 11-man by playing Sully Buttes on September 3 and winning 32-3. The game started with sophomore Adam Stiefvater scoring a 16-yard touchdown. Senior Owen Sandine scored on the next play with a 10-yard run. The third quarter was scoreless, but in the fourth quarter a 21-yard pass from junior quarterback Lee Mentele to sophomore Brian VanEmmerik was successful.

McCook Central defeated Parkston, September 17, 10-8. Stiefvater scored on a 12-yard run and Sandine added the extra point on a 21-yard kick. The Trojans scored on an 8-yard touchdown by Ryan Mitchell. Parkston added the two-point conversion on a 3-yard pass to take an 8-7 lead.

October 1, the Cougars defeated Garretson 29-12. During the game, McCook Central went ahead for good 28 seconds before halftime on a seven-yard pass from Mentele to Brad Kranz. The touchdown was set up by a 37-yard run by Mike Lauck. Sandine added the extra point on a 22-yard kick to give the Cougars a 22-12. Garretson finished with 281 total net offensive yards. McCook Central had four penalties for 116 yards.

The Cougars finished their season October 22 by losing to Kimball 8-6. The Cougars' loss coupled with Tri-Valley's win over Elk Point gave the final playoff spot in Region 2 of Class 11B to Tri-Valley.

Girls look over season's high points and low points

The girls' basketball season began September 2 when the girls played Parker and won 51-50. Head coach Mr. Jack Rasmussen began his sixteenth year.

McCook Central beat number two ranked Parkston 55-47 September 23 causing the Trojans to fall to number eight in the rankings. The game was tied several times. The Cougars made 19 of 49 from the field for 39 percent while Parkston made 16 of 54 for 30 percent. McCook Central outnumbered Parkston 51-24.

October 2 the Cougars defeated Howard at the Howard doubleheader. Then McCook Central, 6-2, were led by junior Tracy Eichacker with 25 points and 12 rebounds. Senior Heather Kreutzfeldt had 14 points, 11 steals and five assists.

Kreutzfeldt was 6-7 from the line, while senior Robin Weber made 3 out of 4 free shots.

The "B" team won 39-30 against Baltic. Sophomore Bobbie Burnham had 14 points and freshman Misti Mokros had ten.

October 14, the Cougars lost to the Freeman Flyers 75-31. Eichacker led with 28 points and 14 rebounds. Eichacker also made 10 of 14 from the field and eight from the line.

With the season ending with a 16-5 record, a freshman varsity player shared her feelings about the season.

"The season made me feel like I had something to provide for the team like I had some talent," said Mokros.

Boys off to slow start but win first district game

"We got off to a slow start 0-5, but the second half of the season our kids matured and adjusted to the new system and became a solid team. After the 0-5 start we went to 11-5," said head coach Mr. Craig Cheeseman.

Leading the team this year were junior Justin Sabers with an average of 15 points per game and sophomore Mike Feterl with an average of 12.5 points and four assists per game. Sabers also had the most three-point shots (35).

"Beating Sioux Falls Christian in the Big East Conference was the most exciting game," said Mike Heumiller.

Coach Cheeseman was happy to be in the new auditorium.

"We are lucky to have this nice of facility to practice in and to play games," Cheeseman said.

"Our seniors Mike Lauck and Ryan Klinkhammer contributed greatly and their leadership will be missed," said Cheeseman.

The Cougars finished second place in districts, beating Parker but losing to Parkston in the championship round. The boys also placed third in the Big East Conference.

"We got off to a slow start which may have attributed to the players adjusting to a new system and coaches. We kept getting better everyday and every game," said assistant coach Rob Grady.

The varsity ended the season with an 11-12 season record and the junior varsity, 17-9.

Student managers were Jill Mentele and Sharlett Stiefvater.

Wrestlers begin season by placing first at Chester

“The most memorable experience of my wrestling season was going to state and trashing Mr. Rieckman’s motel room,” said Shane McGregor.

The Cougar wrestling team opened their season by placing first at Chester.

December 9, Parker won seven of 13 matches to claim a narrow 31-30 victory. Parker dominated in the lower weight classes as they won the 103, 119, 125 and 130 divisions. Lee Osterberg decisioned Curtis Childs 12-7 to win the 112-pound class.

Owen Sandine and Brian VanEmmerik were included in the first coach’s ratings. Sandine rated 4 at 189 pounds. VanEmmerik placed 6 in the heavyweight division.

The wrestlers hosted a pancake feed as a fundraiser. The money raising event was held in order for them to raise money for a meet at Onida (Sully Buttes), which was held February 5. The wrestlers stayed in Onida, while the cheerleaders and managers stayed in Pierre during the tournament.

The team was made up of six middle school students, five freshmen, one sophomore, four juniors and three seniors. Head coach was Terry Rieckman and the assistant coach was Scott Andal.

Girls look back on season's high and low points

The Cougars finished 7 and 13 in their fourth year of volleyball. The JV team ended up with 8 and 4.

"Once the girls realized their potential they could play the top teams in state. I was happy the way they played the toughest teams in state," said head coach Deb Eichacker.

"The Big East Conference was the best the Cougars ever played for that early in the morning," said senior Brenda VanOrmer.

"The highlight of the JV season for me was when we played game two against Hanson during the District Tournament and won (when the JV played their varsity)," said assistant coach Gary Harms.

"They learned how to play 5-1 offense with Angie Knudson playing setter and to continue working on fundamentals with five seniors graduating, the JV netters can look forward to more varsity time," said Harms.

Early practices didn't go very well with the volleyball players.

"I didn't like early morning practices, but the volleyball season went well. We had a good year, but hopefully next year we make it to state," said junior Marlys Meyer.

Team managers were Tammy Cumbee, Susan Hoiten, and Julie Wise.

"Everybody improved on their basic skills which improved us as a team. We had a lot of senior leadership which helped a lot," said sophomore Angie Knudson.

Track team motivated by the thrill of the chase

The thrill of the chase is what makes a person love track, and when an entire team loves track good things happen.

"This was one of our better seasons," said senior Brad Olinger.

Teammate John Ecklein agreed.

"We had a well rounded team and we did really well at the state meet" said Ecklein.

The boys' team took every meet but two in the regular season and the region meet, with the girls having a strong season also.

Coach Gene Danielsen was optimistic.

"It was a rewarding season. Lots of the boys qualified for state and two new school records were set. With lots of promising underclassmen. Next season looks bright," Danielsen said.

Senior Scott Feiner recapped his years in track by saying, "It was hard work, but we had fun." This statement was generally held other team members.

Freshman Patti McGregor said, "It was fun and we had a lot of great seniors this year. It will be hard to see them go. I wish them the best of luck."

Another class of seniors has graduated, but the thrill of the chase has been passed on.

Golfers conclude second season with five off to state

McCook Central golf concluded its second season with five individuals qualifying for the state meet in Rapid City.

Those who qualified for the state meet were Chris Barnett, Denise Gapp, Matt McCormick, Jennifer Meester, and Robin Weber.

Rev. Lyle Meester took over as head coach.

"This year was very successful and the future of the golf program looks 'very bright'," said Meester.

The Region 2B golf tournament was held May 16 at the Two Rivers Golf Course in North Sioux City.

Denise Gapp scored a 109 and placed 9th; Jennifer Meester, 118 and 14th; Robin Weber, 120 and 15th; Pam Gutzler scored a 131. Matt McCormick scored an 88 and placed 11th; Chris Barnett, 95 and 23rd; Andy Kinzley and Adam Peterson scored a 103 and 104 respectively.

"I thought it was a good achievement to go on to regions and then on to state, and to also have fun at state," said region and state qualifier Matt McCormick.

None of the Cougar golfers scored well enough to place in the top 20 at the state meet in Rapid City.

The team had six regular meets during the year.

The school pays the golf membership to the SD High School Activities Association. Otherwise golf is a parent funded sport. The coach is a volunteer and works through the athletic director, Mr. Jack Rasmussen. His salary is paid through the student or parent.

Organizations

GOOD TIMES HARD WORK

Early in the morning on June 23, 1993, the McCook Central band and chorus loaded onto three buses and departed for Winnipeg, Manitoba.

After the 12 hour bus trip everyone arrived in Winnipeg and some of the students attended the "Phantom of the Opera" while other stayed around the hotel.

The first full day in Canada was spent with the choir and show choir performing at Lyon Manor. The students had the evening free.

On Friday, June 25, the chorus performed and received a superior rating, at the same time the concert band competed and got 4th place. During the afternoon the marching band rehearsed for the next day's competition. That evening students went on a dinner cruise.

As Saturday morning began with cold temperatures and windy conditions the marching Cougars took the field for competition. After their competition the marching band had Mass Band rehearsal which consisted of all the competing bands. Late in the afternoon the Mass Band Show was held and the winners of all the different competitions were announced. The marching band received 1st place. Once again, students returned to the hotel for free time.

Again, the morning weather was cold and windy, but it didn't stop the marching band as they competed in the five mile parade competition. At the end of the parade the band found out they had gotten 2nd place. Later in the evening everyone ate supper at the Spaghetti Factory. The next morning the band and chorus departed Winnipeg.

After the 12 hour bus ride home the band and chorus realized that all the long hours and hard work put in really paid off.

PLANNING PROJECTS, SETTING PRIORITIES

Studying or other related school activities and projects made up most of the academic school year.

In Mrs. Roth's family relations class, her eight students experienced what it was like to be a parent by carrying around sacks of flour, known as "flour babies."

"I learned a lot about being a parent and how much it takes to take care of a baby," said class member Joy Reif.

Studying is always a large part of a school year. Here are some tips on how a few students make time for studying.

"I have to prioritize and choose what is most important. Studying is that important thing — so I make time for that," said junior Sara Klingberg.

"I try to take good notes and make sure I review them for the next test," said junior Cristin Thompson.

"I usually read the chapters and get all my homework done," said freshman Angie Lampe.

"I usually try to really concentrate on my biology studies," said freshman Anne Heumiller.

"I usually study at home after I get done with other school activities," said sophomore Holly Olinger.

Awards

AWARDS HONOR ACHIEVEMENTS

As the school year came to a close, many students were on honored for their talents and perseverance.

On May 2 the Music Awards Banquet was held. The welcome was given by Music Booster President Joann Koch, and the presentation of awards and thank yours were presented by music instructors, Terry and Teresa Keehn.

The Athletic Banquet, sponsored by the McCook Central Athletic Boosters, was held on May 19. Presidents Steve and Cathy Peterson gave the welcome and the Master of Ceremonies was Lyle Meester.

Students received were honored for their academic abilities on May 17 at the Academic Awards Presentation held in the auditorium.

Five juniors served as delegates at Boys' and Girls' State held May 30-June 5. Boys' State was at Northern in Aberdeen and Girls' State was at SDSU in Brookings.

FUTURE LEADERS BEGIN TODAY

At the first meeting of the Future Business Leaders of America they elected Jessica Heidelberg as president, Sandi Flack as vice-president, Elisha Wulff as secretary/treasurer, Kelli VanOverschelde as historian, and Chris Huls as reporter.

The FBLA began with selling raffle tickets for a turkey dinner to raise money for the Fall Conference. Despite the money raised, the FBLAers couldn't attend due to bad weather.

"It was too bad that we had to miss the conference, but there was nothing we could do about it, the weather was way too bad to go," said junior Elisha Wulff.

Next was the Spring Conference which was held in Sioux Falls and the FBLA members competed in different business tests. Jessica Peterson received first place in Introduction to Business and Business Math which gave her the opportunity to go and compete in Anaheim, California during the summer.

For the second year FBLA students shadowed area business people during the PSA Shadow Day Program. Finally, the FBLA organization ended their year with a pizza party.

The National Honor Society began their year with Greg Rabenhorst as their president, Denise Gapp as their vice-president, and Heather Kruetzfeldt as their secretary/treasurer.

The NHS sold homemade suckers to raise money for the academic letters. They also sponsored the local Academic Bowl. To raise money for the NHS banquet the society sold candy bars. Then on May 16, the NHS inducted sixteen new members, fifteen juniors and one senior.

SOPHOMORES CAUGHT SMOKING IN LAB

One of the many labs the sophomore biology class experimented with throughout the year was smoking.

In the experiment, the class tested cigarette filters. To do this the class lit a cigarette, then placed it in a test tube covered with filter paper. The students then could look at the residue left on the filter papers to see what actually ended up on the inside of a smoker's lungs.

Besides what the students saw, the smell also left quite an impression.

"The experiment made the room smell like a poker party after we were done," said sophomore Jeremy Gross.

The lab was supposed to give students an idea of what smoking did to lungs, but one student decided to experience the real thing.

Mr. Harms took an unexpected picture and just happened to get Mark Havard trying to smoke for real.

By the end of the lab, most of the sophomores understood the objective of the experiment: smoking is bad for your health — don't try it.

Reaction time

REGION-STATE STATE-NATIONAL

"I thought going to Oklahoma was a good experience. I got to meet new people and see new places," said FFA member K.C. Gregg.

Gregg, an alternate, and team members Pam Gutzler, Shane McGregor, Jerry Osterberg, and Brian VanEmmerik tested their individual and team skills against several of the land judging teams from more than 33 states at the National Land, Pasture, and Range Judging Contest in Oklahoma City in May.

FBLA members got to lodge in Sioux Falls during their state convention, but when the FHA chapter attended their state convention, they weren't given the opportunity to stay overnight.

"I was mad that we could not stay overnight at the convention, and FBLA did," said FHA member Joy Reif.

The state meeting was held May 2 and 3. The FHA members gave presentations on various topics. The members were honored at an awards ceremony in which Jessica Snapper received a top superior. Other superiors went to Bridget Blindert, Christina Chase, Christie Eichacker, Doria Gregg, Joy Reif, Sheri Taylor, and Kelli VanOver-schelde, whom each presented action activities.

YEARBOOK/NEWSPAPER

CREATIVE MINDS FREEZING/FRAMING

Under the supervision of former yearbook adviser Mrs. Shirley Koepsell, along with the help of art teacher Ms. Brenda Moerke, the Koobraey staff opened its first meeting Monday, Sept. 27. The staff held meetings regularly Mondays after school.

Volunteering her time as photography adviser by giving the girls assignments and taking pictures herself were some of Moerke's duties.

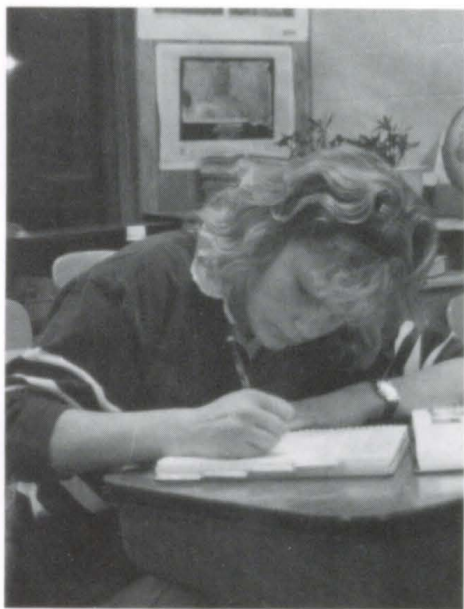

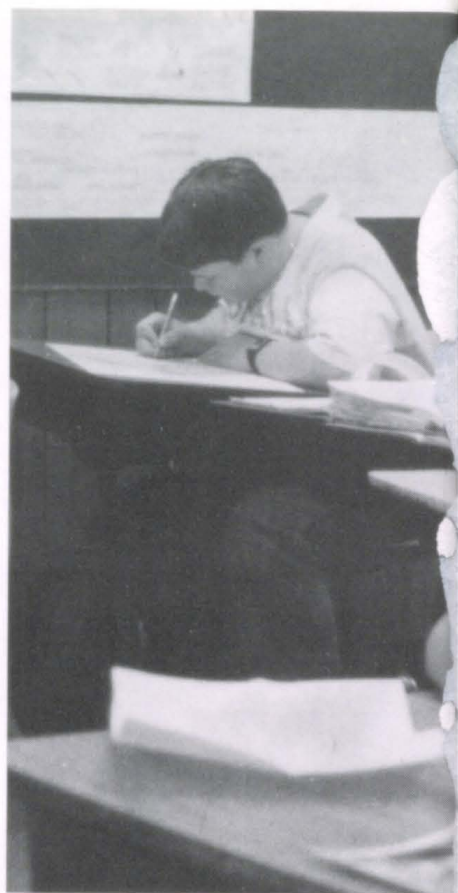

"I enjoy helping out until deadline time comes," said Moerke.

This year the yearbook staff made their first deadline. "The snow days when we didn't have school helped us get ahead by meeting for a few hours," said editor Chris Huls.

November 3, Koepsell, Huls and the other editor Elisha Wulff attended a Walsworth workshop in Sioux Falls. An artist designed the cover of this book. The yearbook and newspaper staffs attended the 1993 SDHS Press Convention at SDSU in Brookings on October 11.

Principal Mr. Gary Harms wrote "In Harm's Way." Newspaper editors Greg Rabenhorst, and Jessica Snapper, wrote editorials for the MCHS Happenings biweekly newspaper.

SHOP ASSIGNMENTS, PROJECTS GALORE

During the year, many students in agricultural education classes and industrial technology classes kept busy by the many projects they worked on for assignments and for personal use.

Many students made speaker boxes for their vehicles, and others made an assortment of items. Greg Roling spent lots of time and effort building calf huts for his farm. Kelly Schock and many others helped him built a calf cart. Adam Lauck and Jon VanOrmer spent some time working on Adam's three-wheeler. Ben Butzke worked on making a small cabinet. Some projects were assigned, such as the Ag Ed I class was assigned to each make a toolbox.

The Industrial Tech III class worked on building the greenhouse in the fall and spring of the year. The greenhouse resides on the southwest side of the school for ag plant sciences.

TOUGH SEASON GOOD RECORD

The Marching Cougars started their season in the middle of August.

"Coming off of trip year which should have been a down year but it wasn't. We did a super job and came home with seven trophies," said band director Mr. Keehn.

The show consisted of four songs "Phantom of the Opera," "Masquerade," "Music of the Night," and "Wishing You Were Somehow Here Again."

Ms. Brenda Moerke volunteered to be the new flag adviser without pay.

"It was a learning experience, and I found I learned just as much as the girls if not more. I had fun doing it and I'd do it again," said Moerke.

Moerke's duties included teaching the girls their routines at scheduled practices and helping some mothers sew flag outfits.

"I think this year was a big improvement over last year. With an adviser it seemed like we got a lot more done," said flag member Cristin Thompson.

The band traveled to Washington High School for the Festival of Bands, October 2. The next two Saturdays took the Cougars to Vermillion for Dakota Days and the Quad State Competition. The season ended October 23 with the Brookings Optimist Club competition.

Chorus

BUSY YEAR INCLUDES MUSICAL PRODUCTION

Between the musical, contest, fund raisers, and several other performances during the year the nearly ninety students in chorus, not to mention the instructor, Mrs. Teresa Keehn, had their hands full.

"There were a lot of voices to whip into shape, but I did my best," said Keehn.

The year began like any other, with try-outs for show choir and a performance at the Potato Supper. The year progressed with preparation for the Christmas concert and then contest for solos and ensembles. After that, things really became hectic.

While trying to prepare for large group contest in April the choir was also practicing madly for the musical. Not everyone in choir was involved in the musical, but most participated in one way or another.

"I wasn't in the musical, but after digging through our attic at home I found a lot of props to donate. I also did some of the cast's make-up the nights of the performances," said junior Elisha Wulff.

Fund-raising was another difficult task to accomplish. Once again, the band and choir sold frozen foods. Also, the Christmas Fair was held for the third year.

Although everything seemed to happen at once, the choir received an excellent rating at contest.

Altos and Tenors

"The day of the play was nerve-wracking, but the play was also fun and worthwhile," said cast member Angie Knudson.

"Strawberry Jam," followed by "The Five Pound Sack of Flour" began with the performances held during the afternoon of Friday, January 21 in the auditorium.

"I was a sneaky, low down, jerk type of character," said cast member Mike Johnson.

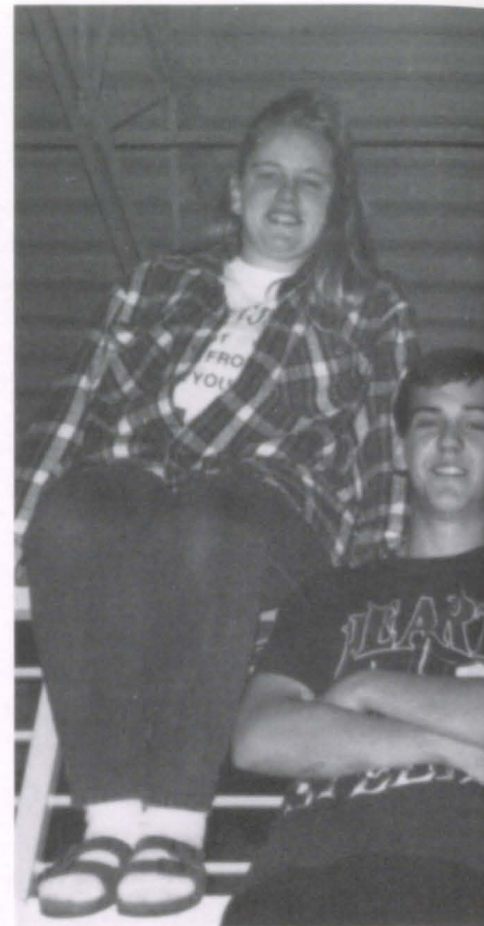

Original evening performances were cancelled due to the weather.

"Considering the difficulties the one acts had to overcome they accomplished miracles," said director Mr. Chuck Sundling.

Heather Roberts and Greg Rabenhorst advanced to region Oral interp, while Rabenhorst went on to state and received the superior trophy. The superior trophy is the highest honor of oral-interp after advancing to state.

"I was really excited and very pleased to go to regions since it was my first year in oral-interp," said oral-interp member Heather Roberts.

"I was really excited about the overall year of oral-interp because we had a lot of new, young participants this year. I'm looking forward to those new people coming back next year and more," said adviser Mrs. Linda Kimmel.

MUSICAL

LONG HOURS DEDICATION

A committee of four judges rated and chose characters for the musical "Anything Goes."

The try-outs were held in late Jan. and rehearsals began in early Feb. A matinee was held April 7, and performances April 8 and 9.

"We practiced nearly every night for two months from 6:30 for at least two and a half hours each time," said cast member Chris Huls.

The music and lyrics were by the noted Cole Porter. The story took place in the late 30's aboard the cruise ship SS American.

"Anything Goes" also featured an orchestra. Members were Barry Jacobson, Katie Jacobson, Heidi Klingberg, Angie Knudson, Patti McGregor, Jessica Peterson, Amber Preheim, Robin Weber, and Mr. and Mrs. Keehn.

"The musical turned out great. I think the changes in the script made it even better," said member Cristin Thompson.

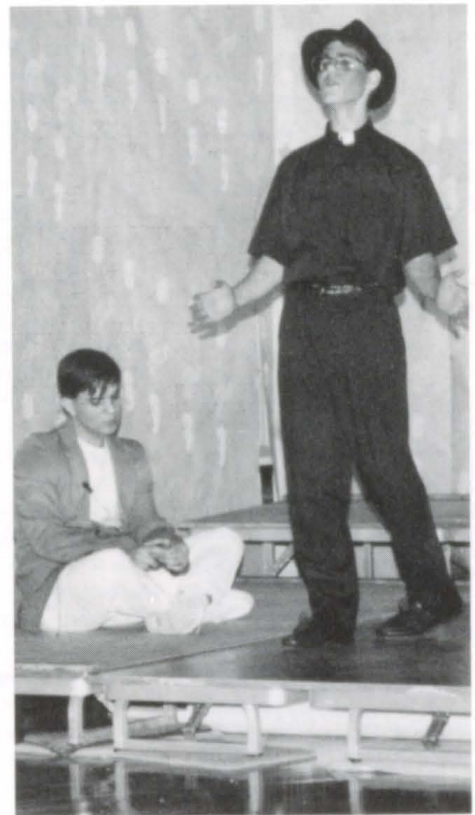

Songs sung during the two act, 11 scene play were "You're the Top," "Bon Voyage," "It's Delovely," "Heaven Hop," "Friendship," "I Get a Kick Out of You," "Public Enemy," "Let's Step Out," "Let's Misbehave," "Blow, Gabriel, Blow," "All Through the Night," "Be Like the Bluebird," and "Take Me Back to Manhattan."

"I really enjoyed working with the kids and getting to know them better. There was never a dull moment," said director Mrs. Teresa Keehn.

Reno, will you marry me?

Sir Evelyn (Greg Rabenhorst) and Reno (Erin Miiller) finally realize that they were destined for each other towards the end of the musical, when Sir Evelyn proposes to Reno Sweeney.

Public Enemy!

What are you looking at?

Senior James Pulse says "cheese" for the yearbook photographer.

THE Shape WE'RE IN

When the class of 1994 graduated there was something different from any other year. They were the first four-year class to graduate from McCook Central High School. Although there will be many more McCook Central High School graduating classes, the class of 1994 will always be the first.

I'm outta here

Senior Robin Weber celebrates as she leaves the auditorium after graduation.

Shaping up

Senior Brenda Van Ormer gets in shape by working out in the weight room, which is located in the balcony of the auditorium.
