Sacred Heart High School

Annual Report 2020-2021

PRINCIPAL'S MESSAGE

Dear Friends,

The past year has challenged us all to adapt to new ways of living, learning and teaching. As we make progress toward a return to normal, we are also celebrating the tremendous passion that our Sacred Heart community has shown in the face of adversity and uncertainty. Your steadfast support has given our faculty, families and students HOPE!

It is HOPE that is most on my mind and in my heart. For the past twelve months, I have had the honor to journey with you and witness LOVE in action from our entire school community. We have tenaciously faced unforeseen obstacles and taken on new challenges far beyond expectations. But what is most remarkable, and yet unsurprising, is that through it all YOU have remained firm and present in your commitment to Sacred Heart, to the Gospel message of LOVE and to each and every one of our students. Even in moments of deepest uncertainty and loneliness, we kept pushing forward, with eyes firmly on the hope-filled future we must create for our amazing young women!

Education is an endeavor of hope. It is the belief that the future is unbound and lives in the light of opportunity. It is the belief that every day allows us the chance to do more for our COMETS than we did yesterday. It is the belief that no matter how we struggle today, tomorrow can be better. Sacred Heart High School is HOPE in action. YOU have made this possible!

It is not always easy to hold onto hope. But we must keep hope alive, for ourselves and for Sacred Heart. We are grateful to each of you who help make the gift of opportunity and hope available to all our students. Thank you for ensuring that as we look ahead, there is a brightness on the horizon, shining on the faces of our young women, illuminating the path to a better tomorrow.

In Great Hope,

Mr. Raymond Saborio

THANK YOU FOR YOUR generosity

What does my generosity do for Sacred Heart?

Within our school's existence, there are fundamental ideals that define a Dominican education at Sacred Heart.

There is teaching that emboldens our young women to shatter the cycle of poverty; there is an environment that encourages young woman to find their voices; there is spirit that supports and up-lifts confidence; there is opportunities for mentoring through real-life experiences; there is a commitment to the dignity of all; and there is dedication to our school community to embrace and share the GOSPEL message of LOVE.

The Avila Family

Helen Avila is a wonderful person in her own right, and she has been a wonderful gift to Sacred Heart High School! There is so much evidence out there! The beautiful reality is that Helen feels SHHS has been a gift to her too.

Helen is a faithful supporter and has been since the late 1990's when her daughter announced to her parents that she wanted to attend Sacred Heart High School. Helen agreed to "go check it out" with her. After the Open House, they both felt secure in their choice. Before long, Helen was volunteering her invaluable help in the school office. She is one of those: "If it needs to get done and I can do it; I'll do it!" The principal invited her to join the Staff on a limited salary, and apologized for the amount. Helen's response: "Well, it's more than I'm making right now!"

That core of listening to the needs and wants of family and friends, generosity in responding, sharing her time and talents in whatever way she is able and her upbeat spirit are still part of her essence today. Helen is here now as a faithful grandmother to her two granddaughters in the classes of '22 and '25.

She is so happy they are here for she treasures the sense of "familia'' among the students and teachers and the whole environment of love, support and encouragement. She said she knew they would enjoy themselves here, and she loves the way the teachers relate to the students and go the extra mile. When she was a Staff member, Helen was also part of the recruitment team and encouraged the students to give the presentations to prospective students and parents. She loved hearing the girls share their experiences and promote the school.

"You are changing lives with this scholarship program, that's for sure. It gives the girls a better chance in life."

As a parent and grandmother she is so appreciative of the Comet Scholarship Program and knows many families would not be able to enroll their daughters if this help were not available. "You are changing lives with this scholarship program, that's for sure. It gives the girls a better chance in life."

We extend our prayerful sympathy to Helen and her family at this time of the deaths of her husband, daughter and sister from the Covid-19 virus. Sending all three of them off to heaven at the same time is just an unbelievable experience. Helen is grateful for the support she has received from the school community and alumnae, whom she treasures as her big extended family. "This family here is awesome. I am so blessed." She is a faith-filled and courageous woman, filled with intertwined sorrow, love and hope. May the Sacred Heart of Jesus send blessings to this family, we pray. Amen.

Michelle Segovia '20

Sacred Heart is home to many young women of different walks of life. Their stories are what inspire our mission to "embrace, empower, and inspire young women to live in faith, truth, and service". Michelle Segovia '20 is one of those many stories. Michelle is currently attending CSUN and majoring in Liberal Studies with dreams of becoming a teacher. She is currently teaching PE at Holy Spirit STEM Academy in Los Angeles, and coaching volleyball at Sacred Heart. Michelle has been a valuable asset to the program taking on the position of assistant coach for the varsity team. I had an opportunity to sit down with Michelle as she reflected on her time here at Sacred Heart, and what it means to her now being back as a mentor for the next generation.

"Sacred Heart gave me the support I needed to overcome one of the most challenging times of my life."

Tell me about Michelle before Sacred Heart:

From what I can remember I was a bit of a trouble maker. Mr. Saborio was my principal at St. Thomas for a few years, and I was in his office quite a bit when I was younger. My mom was working two or even three jobs just to be able to provide for the both of us, which meant that I was not able to spend time with her. At that age it was hard for me to understand why she did not have time for me, and it made me feel lonely. The only way I knew to express my feelings was to act up and misbehave. It was not until I was introduced to volleyball and to new people that things started to change for me in a positive way. Playing volleyball and being surrounded with coaches and mentors that cared for me propelled me in a new direction. It made the loneliness I felt go away and I so happened to meet the people who changed my life for the better.

What brought you to Sacred Heart?:

The reason why I came to Sacred Heart was because of the Beltran family. They changed my life by introducing me to volleyball, and to Sacred Heart. Their relationship to the school was because of their daughter, Jennifer Rodriguez, who was in her second year of teaching and coaching at Sacred, and always spoke so highly of the school. When exploring Sacred Heart as an option my mom really liked the idea of a new environment, and I really liked the idea of volleyball. When I visited Sacred Heart for my shadow day I felt something in me, like I was meant to be here, like I was home.

How has SH shaped you into the person you are today?:

Without Sacred Heart I do not think that I would be the person that I am today. I missed my senior year in 2018-2019, when I had to leave my home November 2018, and go to El Salvador in order to enter and become a legal resident. Throughout the lengthy process, everyone at Sacred Heart was so supportive, even after being gone for almost a whole year. When I finally returned home, the administration, faculty, and staff welcomed me back with open arms; their love and support never faded. Coming back from El Salvador, I realized that I was not the same person, it was almost a traumatic experience for me to this day. I felt as if time stopped for me, but not for everyone around me, and I was sort of stuck and trying to catch up. It was hard going back to school, and I struggled a lot, but because I had such a strong support system at Sacred Heart that everyone there helped me in some sort of way. They taught me to be strong, caring, kind, helpful, and resilient, which I think has definitely shaped me into who I am today. I have gone through so much in my little lifetime, but looking back Sacred Heart has given me the best memories and greatest lessons I have ever received, and without a doubt they truly are my "familia".

LMU PLACE - Sacred Heart Partnership

From a founding Partners in Los Angeles Catholic Education (PLACE) school in 2001 with one PLACEr, to eight current and past PLACErs serving in the Sacred Heart community, the story behind this cooperative partnership is worthy of being documented.

The PLACE Corps program is housed in the Center for Catholic Education within the School of Education at Loyola Marymount University. The pillars upon which the PLACE program mounts are spirituality, professional development, and intentional community. PLACErs commit to two years of service, living with one another in intentional communities while exploring and strengthening shared values rooted in Catholicism, and providing inclusive experiences with a commitment to social justice.

A total of eighteen (18) PLACE Corps members have served in the Sacred Heart High School community over the past twenty years with more than half of them staying beyond the required two-year commitment. Gregory Nakashima (C9) and Grant Kinman (C11) have stayed over a decade and advanced to salient administrative positions such as Athletic Director and Head of Curriculum, respectively.

Antonio Felix, Director of the PLACE Corps program, affirmed his admiration for the program's partnership with Sacred Heart when he triumphantly declared, "We are grateful for the symbiotic relationship we have had with Sacred Heart High School since the inception of the program in 2001. For over 20 years now, Sacred Heart School has welcomed and embraced our PLACE Corps teachers into their school community by supporting and nurturing them as they enter the teaching profession. We are proud to be associated with such a faith-driven school community that embodies our program's three pillars of professional development, community, and faith."

The learning experience PLACErs acquire over the two-year commitment is transferred into the classroom and is evident in their teaching and relationship building. Sacred Heart High School ensures that all PLACErs are supported in their personal and professional growth. Grant Kinman, a member of Cohort 11, started the PLACE journey at Sacred Heart in 2011 and remains eagerly committed to the mission today as he did on his first day. When asked what makes the PLACE-SHHS partnership special, Grant (C11), Head of Curriculum, speaks to the relational and community aspect of the partnership when he posits, "I began at Sacred Heart in 2011. A native of the Pacific Northwest, a male, white, and a first-time Catholic educator, it is fair to say I was an outsider. Yet, as a teacher and member of the Sacred Heart community I was quickly made aware of how this community will welcome you as an "insider" if you are willing to meet their embrace."

Alexis Herrera (C19) and alumna of Sacred Heart conveys how her experience as a student at Sacred Heart and interaction with her PLACE teachers impacted her life tremendously and paved the way for her PLACE journey when she notes, "My story with PLACE began in my classrooms at Sacred Heart. My PLACE teachers were passionate and really excited about what they were doing. When I discovered that I wanted to enter into education, I asked my teachers and mentors about their experience in PLACE and felt more certain that it was the path for me."

Alexis hones in on the vitality of the PLACE-SHHS partnership when she pronounces, "As a graduate now I see the Sacred Heart High School and PLACE Corp partnership as something that I am personally very grateful for. My PLACE teachers changed the trajectory of my life and some of them are now my colleagues. PLACErs at Sacred Heart High School push the school to grow and to consider new methods and pedagogies with new expectations with a lot of heart. Sacred Heart High School has been able to develop into this magnificent school of tradition and empowerment because of its PLACErs. And I'm happy to say that I'm back at my alma mater granting it an opportunity to further its mission."

Asuzena Rodas (C19), an expert in mathematics who teaches two Advanced Placement courses, attests to the overwhelming support that PLACErs are afforded from the Sacred Heart familia and why she chose to stay beyond the required two-year commitment when she shares, "The partnership between PLACE and SHHS reassures me that there is something special about Sacred and its mission. There is a lot of reassurance knowing that past PLACErs have stayed and continue to support other first year PLACErs. Sacred Heart High School is special to me because it is a community that continuously gives me the opportunity to grow as an educator. It challenges me to better serve and empower our students and those around us. Sacred Heart has given me guidance through mentorship and friendships with other colleagues."

Furthermore, Grant (C11), Head of Curriculum, testifies to the supportive community at Sacred Heart and the opportunities that are available to educators who commit to serving in the school community beyond the two-year commitment, "From the beginning, it was clear that for those willing, those of us who begin our careers and choose to stay, the incredible community of educators, parents, and students will claim you as theirs and you will have the opportunity to grow and flourish in education, as I have. I am grateful for all the opportunities and for that embrace I have experienced here, which above all else represents the embrace of the Father carried out through His people, His kingdom here on earth."

Anthony Mangar (C20), a member of PLACE Cohort 20 and Head of Student Life and Empowerment, shares his testimony about the importance of the partnership, the spiritual nourishment he has gained, and how he feels equipped to nourish others to become the best version of themselves when he says, "From the first day I walked on campus, before the start of the academic year, to sign my contract I knew Sacred Heart was the right fit for me. I never imagined that in my second year as a PLACEr I would have the opportunity to serve in the capacity of Head of Student Life and Empowerment and from an integral member of the leadership team. The experience and growth would not have been possible without the proactive, strategic, and innovative vision of the Executive Administration. Raymond Saborio and Luz Vivas are dedicated, fearless, influential, forward-thinking, and inclusive leaders. A stellar leadership duo who possesses the aforementioned qualities make for a preeminent school culture. They are the epitome of 'Great Leaders Inspiring Greatness in Others'. I am convinced that their leadership is the main ingredient in fostering a stronger relationship between PLACE and Sacred Heart."

Our hope and prayer is that the partnership will continue to flourish and that considerably more PLACErs will be granted the opportunity to empower the young women in the Sacred Heart familia. May the collaborative efforts of the PLACE-SHHS partnership always bear witness to the Gospel mandate "Go Make Disciples" (Mt 28:19-20).

The Future of Sacred Heart

Critical Success Areas & Strategic Planning

The Sacred Heart High School educational experience is rooted in our mission statement which "embraces, empowers and inspires young women to live in faith, truth, and service." As the mission continues to evolve, we look to a future in which the vision of the school continues to provide a quality journey, called to provide our students with the resources needed to shatter the obstacles of inequality at home, in society, education, and the workplace. As such, this past year, the Sacred Heart Consultative Board brought together a strategic planning committee to begin the strategic planning process to propel our school community into a relevant and viable future.

The strategic planning process has produced fruitful discussions and tasks among its members, which represent the school administration, faculty, board members, parents, and external partners. At the core of a strategic plan is the alignment of organizational capacity with apostolic need. That is, the strategic planning committee diligently worked to identify the areas of highest priority to ensure Sacred Heart's future as an educational opportunity leader for young women in Los Angeles.

This strategic planning process has produced a series of Critical Success Areas which will guide Sacred Heart in its future planning to maintain a viable presence as a top-notch educational institution in the Eastside of Los Angeles. The Critical Success Areas identified include the following:

1. Fund Development
2. Marketing and Enrollment Management
3. Innovative Regional Leadership
4. Faculty Development
5. Governance
6. Student Life and School Culture

With the help of our greater community, we look forward to implementing the Sacred Heart strategic plan, a roadmap that will guide our school to a vibrant future.

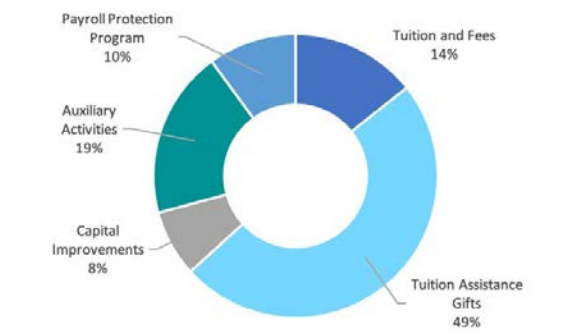

Go Comets!

thank you!

Our gratitude for the generous donors and committed friends who make Sacred Heart the dynamic, flourishing safe haven that it is cannot be overstated. As partners of this school community, your investment in the empowerment of our young woman helps Sacred Heart keep its doors open and keeps it thriving! The impact of this unwavering support is noticeable on our vibrant campus and can be quantified through our annual giving during the 2019 - 2020 school year. Your gifts bolster "our calling" to serve the YOUTH, THE POOR and the VULNERABLE and offer unique opportunities throughout the school year in some ways that are represented in the images and data in this annual report. The abundance of opportunities and meaningful experiences afforded to our Sacred Heart Comets simply would not be possible without your selfless support.
