About Me:

I was born and raised in Tulsa, Oklahoma. I have a brother, Patrick, who lives in Phoenix, Arizona. I attended Oklahoma State University, where I earned a bachelor's degree in Elementary Education with a minor in American Sign Language.

I have been teaching for five years, and I am excited to begin my sixth year in the classroom. This will also be my second year at Washington Irving.

I have been married to my husband, Seth, for three and a half years. We also have a fun-loving 3-year-old yellow Labrador Retriever named Ellie, who keeps us entertained!

My why for being in education:

Ever since I was in first grade, I have wanted to be a teacher. Working with children has always been a passion of mine, and I have been babysitting since I was 13 years old. I love building meaningful relationships with my students and creating a classroom where they feel valued, supported, and encouraged to grow.

One of my favorite parts of teaching is watching my students' growth and confidence blossom from August to May. Seeing the progress they make academically, socially, and emotionally throughout the school year is incredibly rewarding and reminds me why I chose this profession.

Fun Facts:

- I never miss an Oklahoma State home football game.
- I am fluent in American Sign Language.
- I love to do puzzles.
