Dr. Lara Kolb Honored as SCASA Adult Education Director of the Year

Clarendon County, SC – Dr. Lara Kolb, Director of Adult Education at Clarendon County, has been awarded the prestigious SCASA (South Carolina Association of School Administrators) Adult Education Director of the Year. This award recognizes her outstanding leadership and commitment to enhancing adult education in the community.

In her statement regarding the award, Dr. Kolb remarked, "Winning the Director of the Year award is a tremendous honor for me and for Clarendon County Adult Education. It reflects the hard work, dedication, and commitment our staff and students show every day. This recognition highlights the positive impact our program has on changing lives through education and inspires us to continue striving for excellence. Working in Adult Education is a calling. I'm glad I picked up the phone!"

Under Dr. Kolb's guidance, Clarendon County Adult Education has made significant strides in providing quality educational opportunities for adults seeking to improve their skills and advance their careers. Her leadership has fostered an environment of support and success, enabling students to achieve their educational goals and enhance their quality of life.

The SCASA Adult Education Director of the Year award is a testament to Dr. Kolb's hard work and the robust programs developed through her vision and initiative.
