

As an innovative leader, Dr. Rob Bueche understands emerging challenges and opportunities of the 21st century. Throughout his career, he has demonstrated a commitment to scholastic excellence and creating brighter futures through efficient, effective, and elevating practices- investing in students, families, and the community.

He emphasizes present- and future-readiness while valuing community traditions within supportive learning environments that promote high levels of student achievement and attainment.

Dr. Bueche has served as a teacher, assistant principal, principal, chief academic officer, and assistant superintendent in two states, leading with integrity and purpose, centering students' needs with every decision. He holds a bachelor's degree from the University of Michigan–Flint, a master's degree from Northern Arizona University, and a doctoral degree from Grand Canyon University.

A Genesee County native and former Swartz Creek resident, he seeks Swartz Creek as his leadership destination. He is married to an educator; they have three children.