About the Lennox Planning Commission: The Lennox Planning Commission consists of 5 members appointed by the Mayor and subject to City Council approval. The term for each member is two years, and the position is compensated at $600 per year. Commission members must reside or own property within the municipal boundaries of Lennox, South Dakota. The Commission exercises the powers granted within South Dakota Codified Law Chapters 11-4 and 11-6, and exercises planning jurisdiction over the territorial jurisdiction of Lennox, extending three miles from the municipal boundary.

In addition to the powers listed in South Dakota Codified Law, the Planning Commission:

- Prepares and updates the City's Comprehensive Plan as needed
- Recommend changes to zoning ordinances and boundaries
- Oversee the subdivision of land within the City's territorial jurisdiction

The Planning Commission meets on the 4th Thursday of each month, though there are months during which the Commission will not meet due to a lack of action items. Planning Commission meetings can vary in length, but most meetings conclude in less than 30 minutes. Special Meetings are scheduled as needed to address matters that must be discussed and addressed in a pressing timeframe.
