Ridley Students Honor Local Heroes at Luminary Walk

Members of DCTS Emergency and Protective Services and Ridley students who are active members of local fire companies participated in the Delaware County Fallen Firefighter and Police Officers Memorial “Luminary Walk” during the Festival of Lights at Rose Tree Park on Friday night.

Despite the chilly temperatures, students assembled and placed luminaries along the path to the memorials and at each name plaque within the memorials. They stood alongside community members walking the area, answering questions and sharing the significance of the event.

When the event concluded, the students helped clean up the area, demonstrating dedication, respect, and community spirit in honoring our fallen heroes.

Bullying Prevention: Breaking the Cycle of School Avoidance

MENTAL HEALTH NEWSLETTER

BULLYING

The connection between bullying and school avoidance:

In their shoes... Have you ever noticed that a child's backpack holds more than just books? It can carry fears and heartaches too heavy for their young shoulders. Some kids dread going to school because of bullying, feeling anxious, isolated, and desperate for a sense of safety and belonging. Together, we can be the difference these children need.

What is Bullying? Bullying is the ongoing misuse of power in relationships, often through repetitive verbal, physical, or social actions meant to harm others. It can involve individuals or groups using their perceived power to target those who feel unable to stop it.

What is School Avoidance?

School avoidance, or school refusal, refers to a child's anxiety about school and their refusal to attend. It's usually a symptom of an underlying issue.

When Bullying and School Avoidance Mix...

Adults should be alert when bullying and school avoidance overlap. Addressing this requires collaboration between parents, schools, and the community. With strong support, parents can help children regain confidence and navigate these challenges.

Steps to Address the Issue of School Avoidance and Bullying:

Recognize Signs: Identify signs of bullying and school avoidance in your child.

Open Communication: Regularly talk with your child and check how they're feeling.

Track Incidents: Write down bullying incidents, including dates and details.

Involve the School: Report bullying and create a plan together.

Seek Professional Help: Find a mental health professional to support your child.

Speak Up: Advocate for your child's needs at school.

Teach Resilience: Teach coping skills and confidence.

Stay Informed: Learn about school policies and bullying prevention.
