What is the FAFSA?

The FAFSA (Free Application for Federal Student Aid) is the application families complete to determine eligibility for federal financial aid for college or technical school. It can help students qualify for grants, work-study, federal student loans, and potentially state or college-based aid.

Completing the FAFSA does not commit a student to a particular college or require them to accept loans.

The FAFSA Can Help Provide:

Grants
Money for education that generally does not have to be repaid.

Work-Study
An opportunity to earn money through a part-time job while attending school.

Federal Student Loans
Money that can be borrowed to help pay for education and must be repaid.

State & College-Based Aid
Many colleges and states use FAFSA information when determining eligibility for their own aid programs.

A Few Important Things to Know:

- The FAFSA is FREE to complete. You should never have to pay someone just to submit the FAFSA.
- Even if you don't think you'll qualify for need-based aid, it's still worth completing. Some colleges and scholarships require FAFSA information.
- The FAFSA must be completed each year a student wants to receive federal financial aid.
- Students and a parent/ contributor will need to provide financial information and create or use a StudentAid.gov account as part of the process.

We hope to see you there!
