From the Superintendent's Desk

Submitted by Frank Jesse, Chambers Public School Superintendent

So far this winter we have been lucky and have only had one late start due to frigid conditioins. Rule 10, Section 003.06 defines how many hours a school must meet during the year. There is a difference in hours required for elementary, middle school, and high school. However, since we are a single building district and all teachers are contracted for the same number of days, we use the required hours for the secondary as our measuring requirement. We must be in session for 1080 hours during the school year to meet the provision of Rule 10's school year. Currently, the district is on track to meet this requirement. This is something we will continue to monitor closely as we still have several weeks of winter to navigate.

Section 005.01 of Rule 10 covers assessments. The type and requirement of assessments have changed multiple times over the last several years. Currently, juniors must take the ACT test in the spring and students in grades 3-8 take the NSCAS test. At Chambers, we administer the MAP test to all our students as this helps us monitor student growth and aids the district in our curriculum review. Beyond the regular rigor in the classroom to help students prepare for these academic measures, we also provide specific test preparation for the juniors. The junior class participates in the On To College ACT prep course during second semester. Students are also given a winter MAP test in which teachers review student growth to adjust their instructional practices based on the needs of the students.

Some important upcoming events for February include:

- February 9: 10:00 AM start for students
- February 19: 1:00 PM student dismissal; Parent-Teacher conferences from 3:00-8:00 PM
- February 20: No School---Winter Break

Even as a small school district where the teacher and parent most likely know each other, there continues to be research that supports the continued need for holding in-person parent-teacher conferences. Some of these include:

- Building connections between parents/guardians and the teacher
- Discussing the child's academic and social progress.
- Increasing communication between school and home

At your parent-teacher conference, you should expect your child's teacher to share how they are doing academically with examples, how they are doing socially in the class, their strengths, and areas they can improve on. Questions you may consider asking:

- Does my child turn in assignments on time?
- Does my child participate in class?
- Does my child have friends and interact well with others?
- How can I better support my child at home with schoolwork?

I hope you take full advantage of the time allotted for conferences and if alternative or additional time is needed to meet with the teacher, please contact them. We have an outstanding faculty at CPS and they are more than willing to meet with you.

Sixth Grade News

Submitted by Mrs. Thornburg

Our 6th grade class is excited to participate in READBowl, a global reading competition where teams of students from around the world compete for the most minutes during the four weeks leading up to the Super Bowl. The goal is to help students build stronger reading habits and celebrate literacy in a fun, team-based way. READBowl was created by Malcom Mitchell, a Super Bowl Champion, author, and literacy advocate, who believes in the power of reading to change lives. Throughout the competition, students are setting personal goals, tracking their minutes, and working together toward a class total. Students can choose books they enjoy such as novels, nonfiction, graphic novels, and more. One of the best parts of READBowl is the energy it brings to our classroom. Students cheer each other on, celebrate progress, and stay motivated as we work toward a shared goal. It has been wonderful to see students take pride in their growth and build their reading confidence. In the first week of the competition, our class read a total of 3,780 minutes!

Participating in the READBowl is also a great way for students to build progress toward their Accelerated Reader (AR) goal. Each 6th grader needs 15 AR points by the end of the second semester, and consistent daily reading is one of the best ways to reach that goal! Families can support our READBowl effort by encouraging reading at home, asking your child about what they are reading, and helping them remember to log their reading minutes. We're excited to see how many minutes we can rack up as we keep reading like champions!

Juniors will take the Nebraska State ACT Test on Wednesday, April 8. I strongly urge students to be prepared to take these assessments by getting a good night's rest prior to the test day and by eating a healthy breakfast the day of the test.

Third Grade Thoughts

Submitted by Mrs. Lambert

Time flies when you're having fun! It is hard to believe that we are already in the 3rd quarter of the school year. I am not sure where the time has gone.

This group of 3rd graders is quite the reading machines. We started the 2nd book in our reading series right before we left for Christmas vacation. We have read stories from a variety of genres and have learned many new vocabulary words. They continue to read books they check out from the library and always look forward to taking an A.R. quiz over them. They are working hard to meet their goal each month to receive a pizza from 95 West here in Chambers. In fact, at this point in the year this class has read 240 books and over 2 million words. That is quite impressive if I do have to say so myself, especially with a group of six 3rd graders! It is fun to see the enjoyment they get from reading, and how they are improving as readers!

We are putting our multiplication skills to the test in math. We spent most of December learning our multiplication facts and are now finding the area of squares, rectangles and composite figures which involves multiplying. The students completed this unit by designing a zoo and calculating the area of each enclosure. Although we spend a lot of time practicing our multiplication facts at school, continue to practice them at home. Knowing their multiplication facts will make division so much easier when we get to it. We will be learning about fractions soon, which is always a fun unit for the students!

We will continue to learn the remainder of the lowercase and uppercase cursive letters throughout the second semester. You will begin to see some of their work being done in cursive, which is always exciting for them, especially when they can write their name.

Nouns are the main topic in English right now. We learned about singular and plural nouns and will now focus on common and proper nouns and singular/plural possessive nouns, and then on to verbs to finish out the quarter!

We will finish our chapter on animals in science by classifying animals into the five main groups and then continue learning about the relationships among living things in our reading/activities about ecosystems and food chains as we finish the 3rd quarter. The current topic of study in Social Studies is the three types of communities, as well as some geography skills throughout the chapter.

It has been a fun and productive beginning to the 3rd quarter, and I expect nothing less as we continue through the year. Thanks for all you do for your children!
