OUR LIVES CONTINUE

Every year students have gathered in the halls, a continuous whirlwind of freshmen, sophomores, juniors and, of course, seniors. Each class was waiting for the year to pass so they could move one more step up on the ladder of student life. Seniors anxiously awaited graduation so they would be free from all the stress and headache of being treated like children, while they felt like adults.

As the year moved on, most students adapted to the same morning routine of waking up, grabbing their backpacks and heading off to school. Some never quite got the hang of it and were continually late. (Not to mention names.)

Later on in the year, students got excited for the basketball season to begin, wondering who would come out on top in the games. When the girls went on to the state tournament, school spirit was at an all-time high.

As time moved on and the weather got warmer, seniors caught "senioritis" and the teachers became annoyed by the unruly behavior and restlessness of their students. Students were getting excited for the summer to begin. Teachers were hoping for time to pass more quickly than possible.

When prom time grew nearer, it was all the students wanted to talk about. "Who is your date? . . . What color is your dress? . . . and of course . . . Where's the party?"

After prom was over, the seniors were thinking "just 10 days . . . just 5 days . . . just 2 days until our life changes". While the rest of the student body was thinking "just 10 days . . . just 5 days . . . just 2 more days until we move up in the ranks". Every one was sad to see things changing so fast and wondered where life would lead them, but in the end everyone was glad to see . . .

OUR LIVES CONTINUE.

Senior Trip

One of the memories that I will always cherish is the Senior Trip to Red River, New Mexico. I had never skied before. When I filled out the paper to rent boots and skis, they had them in my size, but they didn't have any poles short enough! They found a pair of broken poles and cut them off and glued a handle on the end. When we got out on the bunny slope Mrs. Jantz showed Becca, Amy and me how to snowplow. I thought I had the technique down pretty good when I hit an ice patch and fell right on my southern hemisphere. Of course, Mrs. Jantz was right behind me and just so happened to have her camera out. She "forgot" to tell me that when she had a picture made for me, she had an extra one made for the yearbook committee. OOPS!?!?!?! Story by Sheri Breitenkamp

Left: Joe and Summer play cards while A. J. tries to get Summer with the water gun. Right: A group of seniors in front of the snowplow in Red River, New Mexico. Bottom: Lounging in the Motel 8 lobby in Guymon, waiting for the bus to get fixed.

On the way down there on the junky bus, the generator quit in Guymon. They were wanting to cancel the trip because of this, but then out of nowhere came two geniuses named Joe and Branden. We went to fixing on the bus with a hammer and pliers and then all of a sudden I found a bare wire; it arrayed a lot of sparks and we hooked the wire up and ta dah, it worked. Then we finally got there and started skiing. Bad mistake! I lost a ski and it started heading off the mountain. Luckily Todd was there and diving towards the runaway ski, he caught it and saved me a long walk to the bottom. Then I realized I knew nothing about skiing, but that didn't stop me. I got the hang of how to zip down the slope but turning and stopping was a different story. Story by Branden Rhodes

Homecoming Night

Rock the House

The bleachers were packed with Blazer fans on the night of homecoming. Our opponent was the Waukomis Chiefs, and they came ready to play. The Lady Chiefs gave the Lady Blazers a good, exciting game; however, we won by 12 points. The game between the Chiefs and the Trailblazers was very thrilling and could have easily gone either way. The crowd was roaring in the final seconds, hoping that our boys would come away with the win. Even though the Blazers put out quite an effort, it was a heartbreaking game when the Chiefs won by only a couple of points.

Cheerleading Spirit

- conducted a cheerleading clinic for the grade school
- held spirit contest for homecoming week
- made locker signs for every basketball game

The cheerleaders worked hard on their bulletin board for playoffs.

Living in a Dream

Before the season started, everyone was doubting whether or not the Lady Blazers would be any good. The Lady Blazers returned only one starter, but returned a lot of hardworking girls with pride and dedication. They were going to prove that they were a championship team, and that's just what they did.

They started off the season with a big win to powerhouse Lomega. They took the Cimarron Tournament with a win over #2 Seiling in the championship game. They won the Skeltur Tournament for the third consecutive time. Their record ended up being 21-3 before the playoffs started. Their only losses were to Lomega, Garber, and their neighbor rival, #4 Ringwood.

Before playoffs they were ranked lucky #13 in the state. However, they felt they were good enough to be in the top eight.

The Lady Blazers won their District game against Timberlake. The next week they went to Cherokee and lost to Buffalo. They had to take the long road and play two tough games in a row, but they made it to Area at Weatherford and easily won their first game against Snyder. Then came the famous second game in Area. The game that the former Lady Blazers couldn't get past, but third time's the charm; they made it, and got much-deserved revenge on Buffalo. They played Seiling in the Area Consolation Championship game and won. After the game everyone on the court or in the bleachers went hysterical.

For the first time in Cimarron's basketball history, the Lady Blazers were going to state!

The next week, no one could concentrate on school work. The halls, locker rooms, and buses were decorated in blue, silver, and white. Thursday morning the Lady Blazers left for state. They played Battiest at Midwest City in the Quarter Finals. They were the underdogs, but they won and were going to the Big House! They played Binger-Oney in the State Semi-Finals and lost a very close and exciting game. The Cimarron Lady Blazers were crushed, but after all the tears and disappointment, the Lady Blazers realized that they had proved a lot. They then knew that they had lived their dream, and it was a good dream, filled with lifelong, unforgettable memories. Story by Summer Bode

Sara Higgins, Melissa Malone, and Ky Shaklee are celebrating after the Lady Blazers' big win against Seiling at the Area Consolation Championship game.

Blazers Basketball

The 1997-98 boy's basketball season was filled with ups and downs. One night they would feel as if they just won the state tournament, but some nights didn't turn out too good. One thing they lacked was experience. Going into the season, the Blazers had five seniors and six juniors who hadn't realized what they were getting into. Ricky Stewart and A. J. LaFave were really the only two players on the team who had put in quality minutes in games through high school. Though the Blazers lacked experience, they had their shining moments. The most thrilling moment came when the Blazers upset the Burlington Elks 69-61. That win was a huge one. Another exciting win was the one over the Timberlake Tigers. Jerry Gray hit a buzzer beater and put the game into overtime. The "head to head" game was decided with a one point margin, 55-54, Cimarron on top. Probably the most outstanding moment throughout the year came when the Blazers beat the Garber Wolverines 52-50 in the first round of Districts. Every season has it's shining moments and bad moments. The Blazers "rebuilding season" showed that experience is always a factor while playing the game of basketball. Story by Corey Crow
