When we originally began planning for the spring issue of Heart of Brevard in late February, the focus was to be on showcasing and celebrating our incredible community partners and the demonstration of support of public education in Brevard County. However, as we sat in our editorial meetings, we were also keenly aware that the coronavirus was sweeping the globe. Within two weeks, the world as we knew it came to a grinding halt.

Like many of you, the last three months have felt like the longest in my memory. Also, like many of you, I am a parent, and a parent of a senior no less, who was supposed to graduate in May.

We have endured something none of us could have imagined nor planned for. Who could have predicted that there would be a global pandemic that would change our way of life? The anxiety, uncertainty and fear of the unknown took centerstage in the lives of Americans as the days turned to weeks and eventually months.

As a parent, community member and employee of BPS I am deeply proud of the response to this virus from our school district. The first response was to ask, how can we support not just education, but our community during this time? A county-wide feeding program was mobilized to ensure that children in Brevard County had access to nutritious food. The immense feat of incorporating remote learning for nearly 70,000 students in just two weeks came together under the leadership and teamwork of hundreds of dedicated educational technology staff members. Our teachers, our principals, our staff and our leadership teams have stepped into expanded roles and put in countless hours, and they did so with the welfare of each of our students and their families in mind as they helped to shape the role of education in our community during a global crisis.

Our Superintendent often says "Brevard takes care of Brevard." While this magazine edition looks just a bit different from how it was originally intended, it still celebrates the incredible support of our community for public education in a very unique way. Coronavirus may have stripped away some of our control, but it helped us to come together as a community and find new ways of working all while being united under the banner of One Brevard. It is my sincere hope you enjoy the photographs within these pages as it has long been said that a picture is worth a thousand words. In times like these, images speak to our hearts as we see the genuine care and support for one another as we rise up to become a community we can all be proud to be a part of.

A Community Response to Coronavirus

Sara Almond APR
Government & Community Relations

A few months ago, no one could have predicted daily life would look so different by the end of March. 'Normal' is different now, and the definition of that word will continue to evolve as we all do daily. At the beginning of the month students, teachers and families were looking forward to spring break, a change from the daily grind and maybe even some time to relax.

The Friday before spring break began, the governor of Florida announced state-wide school closures due to the spread of COVID-19. Brevard Public Schools (BPS) had been anticipating the unknown, working daily to revise the Pandemic Response Plan (PRP) the district already had in place. Now, it was time to spring into action.

FEEDING SITES

BPS serves approximately 68,000 students – 58% of which receive free-and-reduced lunch. The Food & Nutrition Services Department spent the week of spring break organizing 14 feeding sites throughout the county. During the first week, over 122,000 meals were distributed to families in a drive-thru style – parents were able to drive up to a designated location at sites, and meals were placed in the trunk of their car by a volunteer wearing gloves and a mask.

Before the end of the first week of food distribution, that number of BPS sites grew to 27. Breakfasts and lunches were provided Monday – Friday by BPS staff and volunteers, and with the help of the Children's Hunger Project, some sites were able to distribute weekend meal packs on Fridays.

DISTANCE LEARNING

Weeks before the governor announced the state-wide closure of schools, BPS' Educational Technology Services Department was working feverishly on a plan for what remote learning would like for the district's nearly 70,000 students and 4,500 teachers. Over 15,000 district laptops and more than 2,000 hotspots (remote Wi-Fi connectivity) were dispersed to students and households that lacked the resources to participate in online learning. Online learning began the week of March 30, and continued through the end of the school year.

COMMUNITY CONNECTION

Providing safe, sustainable measures for feeding thousands of students daily, revising curriculum for grades K-12 to be taught online, ensuring students with additional needs continue to receive the support they rely on – how is this all possible? Brevard Public Schools is surrounded by one outstanding community.

Organizations like The Children's Hunger Project, Love, INC., the Junior League of South Brevard, several local churches and more stepped up to help elevate the number of BPS feeding sites from 14 to 27 – in one week. School board members to school resource officers made themselves available to assist with the high demand for food distribution.

The Brevard Schools Foundation and local non-profit, e-Angels, immediately began assembling hygiene and school supply kits for students-in-transition (homeless students), to be distributed throughout the county. Local businesses to global aerospace and defense organizations committed close to $70,000 to fund the hotspots needed for students without access to the internet.

During an uncertain financial time, businesses continued to give. And give. And give. Domino's, Beef O'Brady's and more brought meals to essential staff members at multiple BPS campuses. Beach Organic Skin Care in Cocoa donated lip balms and hand soaps to show their appreciation to the cafeteria workers keeping BPS food sites running. Parrish Medical in Titusville donated 20 boxes of latex gloves for the health and safety of cafeteria workers, and the families they are serving. Local businesses, donors, volunteers and staff members were made aware of the need, and did not miss a beat stepping in to bridge the gap.

LOVING STUDENTS LOOKS DIFFERENT

Students and staff dismissed for spring break, knowing they may be gone from school longer than normal. As of the publication of this article, they still have not had the chance to reunite – but that has not kept them from showing their love and appreciation for one another!

A flurry of teacher parades have taken place across the county, with BPS staff decorating vehicles, making signs, and slowly driving through neighborhoods near schools to relay a message to students and families – 'We love you, and we're in this together!'. Students in turn created their own signs and banners to display, decorated driveways and sidewalks with colorful chalk and messages of support for their teachers, 'We miss you!'. Several schools have put together video messages of support to share out, with some student bodies reciprocating the encouragement.

A soft spot in the community's heart is for our graduating seniors. The Class of 2020 ended their senior year in a way they never imagined. Proms, graduation ceremonies, all of the pomp and circumstance seniors look forward to looked so very different this year. Every chance to acknowledge and celebrate this talented bunch of 5,000 graduates was taken from a county-wide billboard week and social media campaigns to a district-wide senior salute week.

#OneBrevard

In times of such uncertainty, one thing is for sure – Brevard is a community that cares, comes together in times of trial and works together to stay strong. There are dozens of accounts of community connectedness that may go unmentioned, but not unappreciated. To the teachers, families, community members, partners and more that are contributing to the success of students and staff during this time – you truly are the heart of Brevard.

Summer Learning

To support the strengthening of literacy and numeracy skills, we have put together summer bridge activities for rising 7th – 12th graders who want to continue to engage in meaningful content throughout the summer. Secondary: <https://sites.google.com/share.brevardschools.org/summerbridge/home>

BPS has created an Elementary Summer Optional Learning Opportunities website to support continued learning over the summer. The website has academic resources as well as options for family summer activities. We thank you for your efforts during this unpredictable time and hope you enjoy a safe summer! Elementary: <https://sites.google.com/share.brevardschools.org/summerlearning/home>

Teacher Appreciation Week 2020 Celebrations Went Virtual

The week of May 4-8 was National Teacher Appreciation Week and Brevard Public Schools wanted to recognize our educators, and everyone working to keep our kids mentally challenged, emotionally well and physically strong during this unprecedented time. "BPS Appreciation Week" was a district-wide effort to celebrate our teachers, while also recognizing the efforts of those individuals playing vital roles on the front lines and behind the scenes to support our educators and our students. Each day had its own theme where we aimed to share our appreciation and love from a distance.

Here's how we celebrated your teachers and difference makers...

Monday

Send Love & Appreciation from... A Galaxy Far, Far, Away

Our kids grabbing a flashlight, phone or even a lightsaber stepped outside to light up the night sky, along with their fellow Brevardians. We showed our teachers how bright they shine. The force is strong with BPS!

Tuesday

Send Love & Appreciation from... Our Community

Feeling the love and support from our business and community Partners in Education as they shared messages of appreciation and support for our education heroes.

Wednesday

Send Love & Appreciation Across the BPS "Twitterverse"

Shared our love for a teacher or teachers who have made a difference in our life. We included it in the scrolling feed for all to see.

Thursday

Send Love & Appreciation from... Our Homes

We showed support for public education by hanging signs or pictures in our front window, chalking our driveway or neighborhood sidewalk, or recorded a short video message of love, gratitude and support.

Friday

Send Love & Appreciation from... Our Hearts with a special surprise of a video with a compilation of the week long celebration.

Supporting Ourselves and Others During Uncertain Times

By Cara C. Flickinger, Ed.S., NCSP, School Psychologist, BPS

People around the world are trying to adapt to the ongoing changes in daily life as a result of the COVID-19 pandemic. The following strategies can help us support ourselves and others during uncertain times. We all react to and cope with hardship in different ways. Please consider selecting and utilizing the strategies that resonate with you. In order to reduce overwhelm, you may find it helpful to select one strategy at a time. You can use it for a period of time and then add another strategy to your "toolkit" or replace the strategy with a new one. We are in this together and we will get through this together.

- Create or reestablish routines to provide structure to your day. We do not want to be overly rigid with routines but building in some structure can provide predictability, comfort, and a sense of control (e.g., regular sleep schedules, mealtimes, and work periods). It can be helpful to allow children to provide input when designing the daily schedule. Visual schedules can be useful.
- Begin a gratitude practice. Each day write down three little things for which you are thankful.
- Get enough sleep
- Hydrate and eat nutritious meals. To the extent possible, do not allow yourself to get dehydrated or overly hungry.
- Engage in enjoyable physical activity each day.
- Pay attention to your thoughts. Reframe negative thoughts to positive, more realistic ones.
- If you find yourself worrying excessively throughout the day, you may want to schedule a fifteen to thirty-minute "worry break" each day. As worries arise throughout the day, quickly jot them down on a piece of paper. Designate fifteen to thirty minutes to review your worry list each day. Identify what is in your control and what is not. Create a plan to address worries that are within your control. Begin to take action to address those worries. Accept that some things are out of your control. Consider the worst case, best case, and most likely scenarios. Develop a plan for the most realistic scenario. It can also be helpful to ask yourself whether a specific worry will matter in one week, one year, or five years. This might change your perspective.

- Use reputable sources to obtain important information.
- Limit exposure to news and media.
- Give children the opportunity to ask questions and talk about how they are feeling. Let their questions guide the conversation. Provide age-appropriate, factual information. Listen without judgement and validate their feelings. It is appropriate to acknowledge some level of concern, without panicking.
- Let children know what they can do to stay healthy by discussing and modeling these behaviors (see CDC guidelines).
- As adults, we can try to remain calm, practice self-care, and model healthy coping and problem-solving behaviors. Children look to adults for guidance on how to handle stressful situations.
- Do things that calm your mind and body. For example, practice deep breathing, read, spend time in nature, cuddle with a pet (if available), focus on what you are experiencing in this moment (e.g., what you can see, feel, hear, smell, and taste), talk to a loved one, watch a funny movie or video, practice yoga (e.g., Cosmic Kids Yoga), stretch, engage in enjoyable hobbies, listen to music, visualize yourself in a favorite calming place, wash your face or hands, use a guided meditation app (e.g., Calm, Headspace, Insight Timer, Smiling Mind, or Breathe, Think, Do With Sesame).
- Try to find the silver linings (e.g., more quality time with loved ones, movie nights, appreciation of nature, family projects, etc.).
- Brainstorm projects that might help others.
- Stay connected with school staff and loved ones.
- Be kind, patient, compassionate, and reasonable with yourself and others.
- Accept and ask for help.

Community Connection

Community Connection is one of our core pillars at Brevard Public Schools, and with the global pandemic, it has come to mean something much more than could ever have been anticipated. Community partners answered the call to help Brevard Public Schools provide internet capabilities and devices to students from households that could not afford them to ensure education could continue for children in our community. Money and materials were donated by business, nonprofit and faith organizations to ensure that all children were able to connect to teachers and lessons. With that help, the school district was able to purchase more than 2,200 hot spots which provide a year's worth of internet access, and cost about $140 each.

"We know many students faced challenges getting access to tools and equipment for learning outside the classroom, and Northrop Grumman was proud to support funding for the comprehensive plan Brevard Public Schools developed so quickly to enable student success," said Kirsten Dreggors, Vice President of Engineering and Manned Aircraft Design Center of Excellence Leader, Northrop Grumman Corp.

United Way Summer Reading

Brevard Public Schools and United Way have a summer reading challenge for incoming K-6th grade students! K-2nd read 10 books, 3rd-6th read at least eight multi-chapter books and get invited to an ice cream party at your school!

This is the seventh year of the partnership. Due to COVID-19 this year's brochure - Be A Superhero Reader is available digitally.

Simply print out the last page, hang it on your fridge and write down the books you read. When school begins turn in the form to your new teacher by August 20th. You will be invited to an ice cream party at your school!

(If you don't have a printer there is a link on the form to submit the titles you read into a Google Form.)

Also available in \(en español\) \(an Kreyòl Ayisyen\)

COVID-19 Information & Resources:

In response to the COVID-19 crisis, Brevard Public Schools activated a website that serves as an informational hub for parents, students, teachers, staff and community. This site hosts FAQs along with important documents for precautions and procedures. The site is located at www.brevardschools.org/COVID-19

Brevard Virtual School:

The window for enrollment for Brevard Virtual School is open through July 17, 2020. For any parent or guardian interested in learning more, please view their website located at: <https://www.brevardschools.org/BrevardVirtual>

There is also an informational video regarding this program available at: https://www.youtube.com/watch?v=EFcXOh8Y_6E

UNITED WAY IS CALLING ALL HEROES!

United Way has something sweet to share. We know you want to chill out this summer, but here is the scoop. It is really important that you keep reading. That's why United Way has partnered with Brevard Public Schools.

If you read this summer, simply write down what you read on this form. When school begins in August, turn in the completed form to your new teacher by August 20. You'll be invited to an ice cream party at your school. All you have to do is read!

Prefer reading e-books? Just check the box and let us know you did your reading on myON or Sora. Your school will know how many books you've read over the summer and you'll get invited to the party too!
