TCG LEADERSHIP CLUB

Pokémon | MAGIC THE GATHERING | Yu-Gi-Oh!

★ STRATEGY • STEM • LEADERSHIP ★

WHAT IS THE TCG LEADERSHIP CLUB?

Trading Card Games (TCGs) such as Pokémon, Magic: The Gathering (MTG), and Yu-Gi-Oh! are interactive strategy games. Players use decks of cards with different abilities, strengths, and rules to compete in structured games.

Students take turns, calculate outcomes, solve problems, plan strategies, and adjust their thinking based on the decisions of other players.

LEADERSHIP & SOCIAL SKILLS

Because students play face-to-face, the club also provides opportunities to develop communication, sportsmanship, patience, collaboration, turn-taking, resilience, and leadership.

Older or more experienced players may also have opportunities to teach, encourage, and support other students as they learn.

HOW DOES THIS CONNECT TO STEM?

TCGs give students a fun way to practice skills that connect naturally to STEM learning:

- Math & Probability – calculating points, comparing values, managing resources, and considering probability.
- Logic & Strategic Thinking – recognizing patterns, anticipating outcomes, and planning several moves ahead.
- Problem-Solving – evaluating choices and determining which strategy may produce the best result.
- Systems Thinking – understanding how different rules, cards, and actions work together within a larger system.
- Decision-Making – weighing risks and benefits and adapting when circumstances change.

IMPORTANT: THIS IS A PLAYING CLUB, NOT A TRADING CLUB.

Despite the name Trading Card Game, students should not bring cards to school for the purpose of trading, buying, or selling. The focus of the TCG Leadership Club is interactive game play, learning, strategy, and leadership—not collecting or exchanging cards.
