The Cumberland County Schools Fire Academy at E. E. Smith High School provides students with a unique opportunity to explore and prepare for rewarding careers in fire and emergency services. Through strong partnerships with the City of Fayetteville Fire Department, Fayetteville Technical Community College, and Fayetteville State University, students receive hands-on training, career-focused instruction, and exposure to experienced professionals in the field. The academy's coursework is designed to prepare students for the North Carolina Firefighter I/II certification modules while developing essential skills in fire safety, emergency response, teamwork, leadership, communication, and problem-solving.
