Affiliated with and supported by NAF, the Academy of Information Technology (AOIT) at Pine Forest High School prepares students for postsecondary education, advanced training, and careers in the growing information technology industry. Through a small learning community, students develop technical, analytical, problem-solving, communication, and professional skills while exploring opportunities in today's digital workforce. Through dual-enrollment courses at Fayetteville Technical Community College (FTCC), students can earn 18 or more hours of tuition-free college credit while gaining hands-on technology experience and preparing for industry-recognized certifications. AOIT provides students with a strong foundation for continued education, credential attainment, and successful careers in technology.
