LEARNING LOOKS SWEET

Family and Consumer Science classes practiced baking skills by making cookies for Hubbard High School administrators, teachers and staff. Students focused on measurement, timing, and presentation while giving back to the school community.

LOW BRASS, BIG SOUND

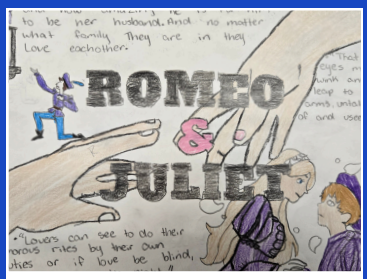

Student musicians participated in Tuba Christmas at Stambaugh Auditorium, joining low brass musicians from across the area for this annual holiday concert!

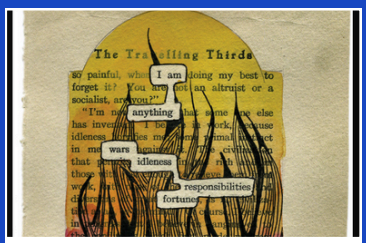

JUNIORS BRING THE CRUCIBLE TO LIFE

EXPLORING THEMES IN ROMEO & JULIET

College Prep Freshmen in Brian Bosheff's 1st and 3rd period classes completed a Romeo & Juliet one-page project. Students created a single-page visual and written explanation of a theme from Act 3, focusing on love, loyalty, and revenge.

READING ACROSS THE GRADES

Sophomores in Chris Moriarty's class are reading Fahrenheit 451, while freshmen are completing poetry packets that focus on close reading and analysis skills.

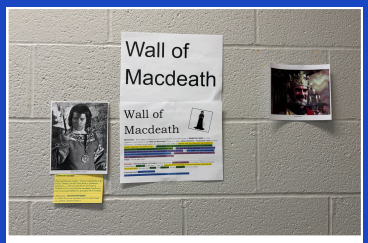

CREATIVITY ON DISPLAY

During National Creativity Month, students in Lindsay Sinkovich's ENG 1 Honors class explored morphology and mythology through creative projects, including blackout poetry and visual designs made from repurposed book pages.

NATURE INSPIRES INNOVATION

Juniors in Chloe Smith's College Prep class began a biomimicry research unit, studying how natural systems inspire human design. Students will complete a 3–5 page research essay connecting nature, innovation, and sustainability.

TRACKING TRAGEDY IN MACBETH

Seniors in Chloe Smith's College Prep class are reading Macbeth and created a "Wall of MacDeath," where students analyze character deaths through quotes and themes such as ambition, power, guilt, and fate.
