INTRODUCING THE C-E-R FRAMEWORK

A Powerful Framework for Reading & Writing

C CLAIM

THE POINT OR ARGUMENT
BEING MADE

- ✓ States a firm position
- ✓ Answers a question
- ✓ Could be an answer, idea, conclusion, or thesis

E EVIDENCE

INFORMATION THAT SUPPORTS THE CLAIM

- ✓ Appropriate for the argument and audience
- ✓ NOT opinion-based
- ✓ Could be observations, data, facts, quotes, or information

R REASONING

CONNECTS THE CLAIM
AND EVIDENCE

- ✓ Summarizes, adds to, or explains the evidence
- ✓ Could be the logic or justification behind your claim

★ STRONG READING. CLEAR THINKING. POWERFUL WRITING. ★

C-E-R WRITING TIPS

Strong Writing = Claim + Evidence + Reasoning!

C CLAIM

THE POINT OR ARGUMENT

- ✓ Stuck writing your claim?
- ✓ Answer the question.
- ✓ State a firm position—just get to your big idea!
- ✓ Avoid phrases like “I think...” or “I believe...”
- ✓ Rephrase it in a sentence that sounds certain.

E EVIDENCE

INFORMATION THAT SUPPORTS THE CLAIM

- ✓ Avoid “floating quotes”—introduce your facts and quotes.
- ✓ A quote should be part of your sentence, not standing alone.
- ✓ Cite your evidence!

R REASONING

CONNECTS THE CLAIM
AND EVIDENCE

- ✓ Explain how your evidence supports your claim.
- ✓ Use: Summarize, “So What?”, or Call-to-Action.
- ✓ Tell your reader why they should (or should not) care about the topic.

AS YOU WRITE...

After every sentence,
ask yourself:

*Does this support
my claim?*

CONCLUSION IDEAS

- 1 Summarize: rephrase your claim and main evidence.
- 2 “So What?": explain why your reader should care about the topic.
- 3 Call-to-Action: tell your readers what they should (or should not) do based on your writing.
