Graettinger-Terril and Ruthven-Ayrshire School Districts Announce Jeff Dicks as Shared Interim Superintendent

GRAETTINGER & RUTHVEN, IA — The Board of Directors for the Graettinger-Terril Community School District and the Ruthven-Ayrshire Community School District are pleased to announce that Jeff Dicks has been selected as the districts' new shared Interim Superintendent, pending final board approval.

Dicks brings more than two decades of proven educational leadership to the shared superintendency. He retired from the Newell-Fonda Community School District in June 2024 after a distinguished tenure, and most recently served as the Interim Superintendent for the Estherville Lincoln Central Community School District during the 2024–2025 school year.

His extensive background in Northwest Iowa school administration and deep familiarity with shared district operations make him exceptionally well-suited to guide Graettinger-Terril and Ruthven-Ayrshire through the upcoming academic year.

"We are thrilled to welcome Jeff Dicks to our school communities," said Jill Conlon, President of the Ruthven-Ayrshire Board of Directors. "Jeff's steady leadership, track record of success, and deep roots in regional education will be invaluable as we continue our work providing the best possible environment for our students and staff. He understands the unique strengths and needs of rural Iowa districts, and we look forward to partnering with him."

"Jeff has demonstrated throughout his career—and most recently at Estherville Lincoln Central—that he can step into a district, build strong relationships, and keep momentum moving forward without missing a beat," added Kevin Jensen, President of the Graettinger-Terril Board of Directors. "His wealth of experience as a long-term superintendent makes him the right fit to lead both districts through this transitional period."

Dicks' appointment will be formally submitted for official board action at upcoming meetings for both districts. Upon approval, he will immediately begin working alongside administration, teachers, and staff to prepare for a seamless start to the school year.
